

Reds Press Attack, Hue Battle Rages

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting subsided in Saigon today but still raged in Hue and the Communists pressed their biggest offensive of the war into a fifth day with fresh attacks on at least eight other cities.

Enemy gunners also opened up with the heaviest artillery bombardment in several weeks along South Vietnam's northern frontier, where U.S. troops are watching tensely in what they call "the big wait." Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam, has said the next phase of the enemy's plans is a major assault in the north.

In the current phase—attacks against government cities—a senior American official said the Communists threw 36,000 men against 35 populated centers. The enemy suffered a "substantial military defeat," he said, but still has the "capacity for a second wave of attacks."

A U.S. spokesman said the Communists' current trend "is toward a slowdown rather than an increase," but the full picture still was not clear. In Saigon, the guerrillas may have gone back into hiding. Reports from Hue, far to the North, listed some allied gains but the U.S. Command said U.S. Marines who fought their way to the jail found the enemy had released 2,000 to 3,000 prisoners.

Report 12,700 Killed

If the senior official's figure of 36,000 enemy attackers is correct, the U.S. casualty count shows that the enemy already has lost more than one third of its attack force. Headquarters reported that over the past five days allied forces killed 12,700 Communist troops by body count in the heaviest week of fighting in the war.

It said 3,576 Communist suspects have been captured and 1,814 weapons seized.

Allied losses for the same period were put at 983 killed and 3,483 wounded. These included 318 American dead and 1,639 wounded.

GUARDING A PRISONER — Vietnamese rangers guard a blindfolded Viet Cong suspect after capturing him inside a military compound on the northern outskirts of Saigon where Communist terrorists killed a South Vietnamese officer and his family, including five children. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

The high U.S. official said the Communists succeeded in creating terror, confusion and military problems but "it is very clear that the people have not responded to a general uprising."

There is no evidence of any significant popular support of the Viet Cong. As for the expected assault at South Vietnam's northern frontier, where a U.S. spokesman said there are as many as 50,000 North Vietnamese soldiers who did not get into the city fighting at all, the senior official said

"the fighting may be severe and bitter but I think we can handle it."

In Saigon, South Vietnamese rangers said they captured a 16-year-old girl who had been firing a machine gun at U.S. military jeeps in a skirmish near the American post exchange in Cholon, the Chinese sector.

Five American Missionaries were slain in a Viet Cong assault in a village. Details are on Page 12.

U.S. officers said for the most part, allied forces were searching for Communist troops around Saigon and had failed to find them. But Vietnamese marines clashed sharply with a group of Viet Cong apparently on the run about four miles north of Saigon.

At Hue, the old imperial capital which has been under siege since Wednesday, South Vietnamese troops reported recapturing the airfield inside the city's walled citadel. The U.S. Command said at least two Communist companies—perhaps 300 men—still are in the citadel.

A Matter of Time

Brig. Gen. John Chasson, director of the command's combat operations center, said while the South Vietnamese forces are going after the Communists, U.S. Marines are in a blocking position and "it's just a matter of time. I would feel that within the next day or so we'll have Hue clear."

Associated Press correspondent John Lengel had reported from Hue Friday night that the city was blacked out and the situation was confusion. He said the Viet Cong, supported by anti-government students, apparently still held much of the city. At one time, 2,000 Communist soldiers had been reported in Hue.

There was no further word on the fate of the 10 to 20 American civilians reported missing in the city.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance announced that six American missionaries were slain in a Viet Cong assault against Ban Me Thout, a provincial capital in the central highlands 160 miles north of Saigon. One other missionary was wounded, one captured and one missing.

In the far north, Chasson said Communist forces with mortars and machine guns attacked a U.S. Marine headquarters at Cam Lo, 10 miles south of the demilitarized zone, "the center anchor along the DMZ line."

In a six-hour battle, seven Marines and 111 Communists were killed and 20 Americans wounded, he said. The Marines also reported capturing 43 suspected Communists.

At first, Chasson said, U.S. officers thought the Cam Lo action might be the start of the expected northern offensive. He said they are trying to figure out how the northern assault is to be coordinated with the Communist attacks on the cities.

"Synchronization seems quite obvious," he said. "It has many advantages from his (the enemy's) standpoint."

The Viet Cong announced they would honor a seven-day truce at Tet and the allies half-believed them despite the Communist record of truce violations over the years.

But as the battle of Saigon continued into its fourth day Saturday, it became apparent that the major reason for the Viet Cong's successes in South Vietnam's capital was the painstaking organizational work in the months preceding the onslaught.

The fighting in the city has not been a hit and run affair. The past few days have shown that the Communist underground is as effective and all-pervading in Saigon as in the most contested hamlets in the countryside.

Two Local Men Charged With Promoting Gambling

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

The January Grand Jury which filed 16 indictments, one sealed, Friday afternoon recommended that the district attorney file information in Kingston City Court against two Ulster County men for alleged gambling activities.

William Costello of Kingston and Milton Tompkins of Hurley are facing charges of promoting gambling in the second degree at an establishment identified in the information as the Golden Cue, a billiard parlor at Broadway and Maiden Lane.

Costello is a well-known softball player, having competed in the Kingston City Softball League and in Ellenville. The charges stem from gambling activities described as poker and skin on Jan. 4 and 24 at the above mentioned establishment.

During the past month a stream of witnesses well known in the local gambling fraternity have been testifying before the grand jury giving rise to the speculation that a gambling crackdown was imminent.

The open indictments filed yesterday included the following:

Emerson "Tookie" DuBois, 19 of Broadway, Kingston was charged with robbery in the third degree and grand larceny, third degree. DuBois was arrested by Kingston detectives on Jan. 3 and charged with the December 30 robbery of a money bag from Mrs. George Bixby of Woodstock, manager of Nugent's Dress Shop at Kingston Shopping Plaza. Police said she was robbed of $960 when a man wearing a ski mask pushed her to the ground and grabbed the store's money bag.

Julio Valentin Rivera, also known as Julio Rivera and Julio Valentin, 29 of Ellenville, charged with assault in the first degree; assault, second degree and possessing a weapon as a felony.

Rivera, arrested by Ellenville Police Chief Abe Rand, is accused of shooting Roberto

To Lower Settlements

Union Heads Opposed

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — A Johnson administration proposal that labor shoot for lower wage settlements this year to help fight inflation drew a thumbs down response Friday from a number of union leaders.

The suggestion by President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers Thursday that labor keep its 1968 increases "appreciably lower" than the 5½ per cent it said they averaged last year was termed "unrealistic" by Morris Iushewitz,

Iushewitz, secretary of the New York City Central Labor Council which represents 1.2 million union members, said: "With profits as enormous as they are and with the cost of living going up continually, it is most unrealistic to expect the line to be held at 5½ per cent. Many unions have gotten above that already. Because of the economic pressures on the workers many settlements which the leadership thinks good have been rejected by the membership."

In Washington, a spokesman for the AFL-CIO said his organization rejected any control over wages "unless accompanied by controls on profits, prices and executive salaries." He said he knew of no union which would demand less than 5½ per cent in 1968 bargaining because "the cost of living has been going up faster than real wages."

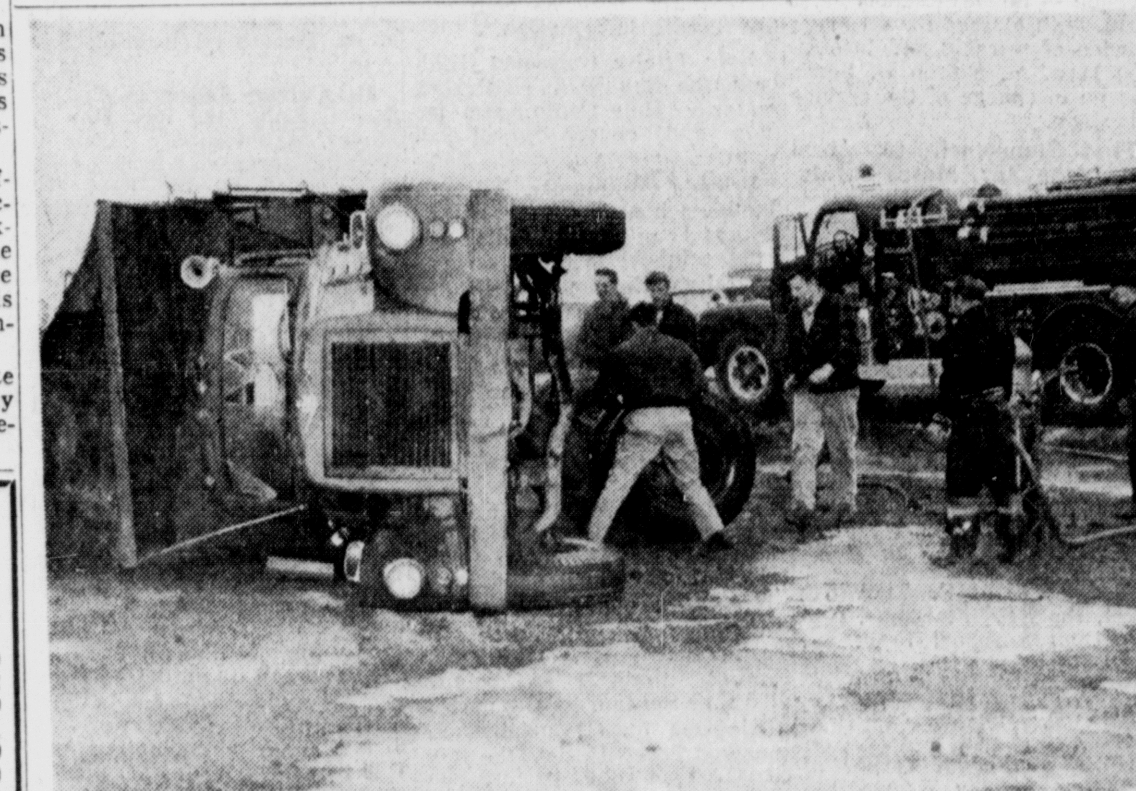

He pointed to a resolution passed at the recent AFL-CIO national convention which said, in part, "We have consistently opposed and we will continue to oppose the wage guidelines of the President's Council of Economic Advisers as an unfair and unworkable imposition of government interference with collective bargaining."

Joseph Germano, a United Steel Workers official in Chicago, said, "I certainly don't think it would be fair to ask organized labor to make all the sacrifices. Our members have some catching up to do."

"All the gains made since 1965 have been eaten up by cost of living increases. Before wages are frozen the existing inequities should be eliminated. The freeze should be applied to profits and dividends. It's not fair to freeze wages and salaries without freezing prices and profits."

Pat Gorman, secretary of the Amalgamated Meatcutters and Butcher Workmen of America, said, "Labor should oppose it there are other ways the government can obtain money without taking it from the pay envelopes of the workers."

International Longshoremen's Association Executive Vice President John Bowers said the officials of his union "will be guided accordingly by whatever the wage scale committee dictates. If the scale is over the 5½ per cent level the obligation of the officers conducting contract negotiations is to the membership."

ANOTHER 209 MISHAP—Ronald Kozlowski, 30, of Andrew Street, Kingston, escaped with slight injuries of the left leg when this truck went out of control on Route 209, one-half-mile south of Route 28 and overturned. Trooper R. O. Rieseberg reported the vehicle was traveling north when a rear wheel snapped off causing the truck to overturn. The load of sand fell spilled from the vehicle. Firemen (above) stand by but no fire resulted. (A complete roundup of area accidents can be found on page 12). (Freeman photo by Haines).

Flower Truck Used To Hide Commandos

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong commandos who stormed the U.S. Embassy Wednesday rode into Saigon concealed in a truckload of flowers.

Like the Greek soldiers who hid in a wooden horse to enter Troy, Viet Cong employed deceit and surprise to launch their attack—two tactics as old as war itself.

Hiding under the blooms on flower trucks was but one method used to infiltrate a city happily preparing to embark on the annual celebration of Tet, the Vietnamese lunar new year and traditionally a time of peace and tranquility.

The Viet Cong arrived in provincial buses, in taxis, on motor scooters and by foot. They easily entered a wide open city.

Only on one previous occasion has the Vietnamese Tet been so rudely violated. That was in 1789 by Gen. Nguyen Hue. He was a Vietnamese patriot who, celebrating Tet with his army five days early, marched 300 miles up the central Vietnamese coast, and routed a Chinese invasion force that presumed he would be holidaying like the rest of the country.

Gen. Nguyen Hue now is the greatest Vietnamese military hero. When the Communists started hammering the grogginess of Saigon Wednesday morning, the Vietnamese population remembered their history.

The Viet Cong announced they would honor a seven-day truce at Tet and the allies half-believed them despite the Communist record of truce violations over the years.

But as the battle of Saigon continued into its fourth day Saturday, it became apparent that the major reason for the Viet Cong's successes in South Vietnam's capital was the painstaking organizational work in the months preceding the onslaught.

Wallkill Marine Dies in Vietnam

A Wallkill Marine became the third Ulster County resident to die in Vietnam in 1968 and the 16th since the beginning in 1966.

Marine Pfc. Jose Viruet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Viruet of Wallkill, was killed in action in South Vietnam's Quang Dan Province, near the city of Da Nang, on Jan. 31.

Private Viruet was driving a military vehicle at the time. Reports indicate that the vehicle hit a mine and Viruet died as a result of fragmentation wounds to the head.

He was given the last rites of the Catholic Church, and his body is currently in the U. S. Army mortuary in Da Nang.

A sister of Viruet, Margarita Soto of the Bronx, will handle the funeral arrangements.

Viruet was a member of the Military Police Company, Headquarters Battalion, First Marine Division.

Viruet became the third Ulster County fatality this month. Air Cavalry Pfc. Wayne C. Myers of Saugerties was killed last week and Marine Pfc. Joseph Leroy Long of 128 Franklin Street was killed in action near the demilitarized zone on Jan. 15.

Pfc. Viruet is the second Marine from Wallkill to be killed in that Southeast Asian nation. Lance Corporal Richard W. Crawford, 19, was killed in September of last year.

The grim statistics show that six Kingston men have been killed in Vietnam, four from Saugerties, two from Ellenville, and two from Wallkill, and one each from Esopus and Highland.

A Hectic Week

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

IT'S BEEN quite a week around the Hall. A budget and reapportionment were approved, 100 protestors showed up from the 12th Ward and a part-time mayor took over.

FIRST, the budget. That whole deal was blown way out of proportion. Garraghan, for the first time in his mayoral career, was dealing from strength after the Democrats passed the budget. His turning of the screws on the Republicans with the resign or revise letter was uncalled for. It finally came down to suggestions from all sides of, "sign it and end this petty squabbling." Ray did eventually sign, but it was tough and go for a while in his office Monday morning.

Late that evening we received word that Judge Kane had approved the Norton Plan (Democratic) for city reapportionment. You could almost hear the collective sigh of relief from city Democrats. Approval of the Bell plan for at-large aldermen was considered fatal to their party by local Dems.

Actually, we figured Judge Kane would approve the Dem plan. The action at the Reapportionment meeting before Judge Kane went like this: Aaron Klein presented the Democratic plan and map. Clark Bell criticized the Democratic plan and presented his at-large plan. Robert Imrie of the attorney general's office backed Klein, blasted Bell and said his office had no objections to the Norton Plan. From where we sat it looked like the issue was settled right there.

WE'VE got to commend Alderman John Machione of the 12th Ward for his representation of his people on the Hess Apartments issue. This reporter and other newsmen tried to get Machione to take a stand on the issue before the public hearing Tuesday night.

Machione wouldn't take a stand. He said he would vote for whatever his constituents wanted. We feel this is the way it should be. Those people elected Machione to represent their views, not Machione's. Too many public officials get elected and then forget all about the people who put them there. John Machione is not one of them.

WILL GARRAGHAN resign from public office? We doubt it. Those rumors being broadcast are completely unfounded. We'd like to meet some of those "informed sources."

It's been a tough first two years for Ray but he's starting to see sunlight. It appears he's got his own party working with him and with that backing should be able to rack up an impressive legislative record in the next two years. This is hardly the time for him to quit. He's got it made.

THE FIREMEN gave a fine retirement party for Leo

Cragan at the Walnut Grove Monday night. Chief Jim Brett, in our opinion, is one of the better speakers around. Nothing fancy, just impressive. Bob Gallo filled in for the mayor and came through like a champ. Leo's speech was perhaps the best of all. He just said, "Thanks a lot fellas. Thanks an awful lot."

FINALLY, a riddle. How do you combine political power with flower power? Word has reached this column that Bud Lyle and Bobby Gallo, both very successful in the political arena, will open a flower and gift shop at Bud's old grocery store on Albany Avenue.

We suggested naming it the Caucus Room but that was nixed by the partners. They don't feature the GOP in their caucuses at Council meetings but the welcome mat will be out at the shop. The grand opening is expected sometime towards the middle of this month.

Valley Minister Group

Auditorium Rally Slated

The Rev. David Wilkerson, a leader in today's fight against drug addiction and delinquency, will be the speaker on March 23, 7:30 p. m., at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium in a rally sponsored by the Hudson Valley Ministerial Association.

The public is invited to attend. Prior to 1958, Dave Wilkerson was a small-town Pennsylvania minister who never had seen New York. Today his parish consists of the sidewalks of New York and the slums of big cities across the country, and overseas. His mission is to teenage gangs wherever they are making trouble. He has helped to establish "in patient" care centers for narcotic addicts in major cities in the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico. As director of Teen Challenge, Wilkerson, in his thirties has, since his arrival in New York in 1958, become well versed in the language of the street tough and narcotics addict. He preaches the Gospel of Jesus Christ in terms understood by young hoodlums and their "debs" and "dolls" often mixing Scripture and the jargon of the "junkie" in the same sentence.

The Rev. Mr. David Wilkerson's first encounter with New York was an unfortunate one—or so he thought at the time. His bad luck that day turned out to be a boon. For five years, Dave had been minister of the Gospel Tabernacle in Phillipsburg, Pa., when he decided to drive to New York to try to help seven boys indicted in 1958 for the murder of Michael Farmer, a crippled teenager, in a city park. He wanted to talk to the boys and their families to try to learn why they had committed the crime and how he could help them.

When the day came for the defendants to appear in court, Wilkerson was on hand. But he was turned away by the authorities. He waited until the proceedings had ended and then approached the bench, holding a Bible aloft. As he walked toward the judge, he was seized by courtroom attendants. Unknown to him, there had been a threat against the judge's life. The attendants feared the Bible concealed a weapon, and evicted him forcibly from the courtroom. Within a few hours, pictures of Dave brandishing his Bible were in print in the newspapers. Word had spread through the teenage underworld that it had a friend. When to that position as a "mission" member of the church's Mission Committee are invited to the paragon for coffee and time with the State.

He of their experiences in that area of the world at the pro-Bahrain, Amarah and Basrah, gram Sunday evening which is Iraq; conducted a radio minis-open to the public.

Candlemas Festival Set At Holy Cross Sunday

The Episcopal Parishes of the Kingston area will hold their Candlemas Acolyte Festival Sunday, Feb. 4, at 4 p. m., at the Church of the Holy Cross, Pine Grove Avenue in Kingston. The preacher will be the Rev. Richard Kird of the Diocese of New York Department of Christian Education.

The name Candlemas comes from the ceremonial blessing of candles and procession that dramatically symbolize the prophetic words of Simeon, when the infant Christ was first presented in the Temple, describing Jesus as "A light to lighten the Gentiles." In response to demands of the Jewish religion, Mary and Joseph had brought the Christ Child to the Temple to make the required offerings.

Valley Minister Group

Auditorium Rally Slated

The Rev. David Wilkerson, a leader in today's fight against drug addiction and delinquency, will be the speaker on March 23, 7:30 p. m., at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium in a rally sponsored by the Hudson Valley Ministerial Association.

The public is invited to attend. Prior to 1958, Dave Wilkerson was a small-town Pennsylvania minister who never had seen New York. Today his parish consists of the sidewalks of New York and the slums of big cities across the country, and overseas. His mission is to teenage gangs wherever they are making trouble. He has helped to establish 'in patient' care centers for narcotic addicts in major cities in the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico. As director of Teen Challenge, Wilkerson, in his thirties has, since his arrival in New York in 1958, become well versed in the language of the street tough and narcotics addict. He preaches the Gospel of Jesus Christ in terms understood by young hoodlums and their 'debs' and 'dolls' often mixing Scripture and the jargon of the 'junkie' in the same sentence.

The Rev. Mr. David Wilkerson's first encounter with New York was an unfortunate one—or so he thought at the time. His bad luck that day turned into a boon. For five years, Dave had been minister of the Gospel Tabernacle in Phillipsburg, Pa., when he decided to drive to New York to try to help seven boys indicted in 1958 for the murder of Michael Farmer, a crippled teenager, in a city park. He wanted to talk to the boys and their families to try to learn why they had committed the crime and how he could help them.

When the day came for the defendants to appear in court, Wilkerson was on hand. But he was turned away by the authorities. He waited until the proceedings had ended and then approached the bench, holding a Bible aloft. As he walked toward the judge, he was seized by courtroom attendants. Unknown to him, there had been a threat against the judge's life. The attendants feared the Bible concealed a weapon, and evicted him forcibly from the courtroom. Within a few hours, pictures of Dave brandishing his Bible were in print in the newspapers. Word had spread through the teenage underworld that it had a friend. When Wilkerson went to the teengang territories, he was welcomed as a hero and a friend—with "We don't like the way the cops handled you—they don't like us either—come meet the boys." Dave was soon accepted in the gang hideouts, where he preached to the youngsters, directing his message mainly to the gang leaders, on the theory that if he could win them over, the gangs would be reached. He succeeded with several of the most ruthless of the gang leaders and began to build a following. Soon he had a staff of street workers helping him.

Teen Challenge has its headquarters in a once prosperous section of Brooklyn. At present there are five buildings in use on Clinton Avenue, including a new half million dollar spiritual therapy clinic for narcotic addicts. A center for girls and a staff apartment house are included. In the winter of 1962, a religious vocational school to rehabilitate narcotic addicts was established on a Pennsylvania farm with a capacity for 100 boys.

Claim Pueblo Officer Admitted Intrusion

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea today quoted what it called a "confession" by the research officer of the captured U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo in which he apologized for its intrusion into North Korea waters, begged for release, and said the Johnson administration "forced me to commit such a crime."

North Korea's Korean Central News Agency identified the officer as Lieut. Stephen Robert Harris, 29, of Melrose, Mass.

It said he admitted espionage "deep in the coastal waters" of North Korea aboard the Pueblo until it was seized by Communist gun boats Jan. 23. The United States has maintained the vessel was operating on the high seas.

The account, which said members of the 83-man crew were being well treated, ended with this assertion:

"It was a very dirty crime that I committed in the sea of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, though I, as a military man, had merely obeyed orders of my commander. Now I realize what a serious crime I committed. It is the Johnson administration and my commanders that forced me to commit such a crime. I hate them. I deeply repent and sincerely apologize to the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for my criminal acts. I beg of you to forgive me my crime."

The report said Harris went on to promise that if North Korea "forgives me generously and allows me to return home, I will never again associate myself in such activities. I will oppose the Johnson administration's policy of aggression against other countries when I return to the United States even if I am forfeited from my commission as a U.S. naval officer."

"I now humbly beg for all the kindness in the hearts of the Korean people to allow me to see my dear wife and mother as early as possible." Harris' wife, the North Koreans said, is in Canada and his mother in Boston.

A similar appeal for leniency in an alleged confession Jan. 24 by the Pueblo's captain, Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, touched off speculation the North Koreans might be setting the stage to release the crew on humanitarian grounds following admissions of "guilt."

Harris' purported statement gave details not contained in Bucher's, including a statement that the Pueblo was prohibited from transmitting any radio or radar messages during the operation to escape detection. All information was to be reported at the home port, it said.

Two Are Arrested After City Chase

A high speed chase through the streets of Kingston today ended in the arrest of two young men, one of whom received emergency treatment at Kingston Hospital after his speeding car smashed into a wall.

Arrested were Charles Edward Scully, 20, of 42 Stickle Avenue, and Charles Sylvester Scully, 18, of RD 2, Box 43, Kingston.

It all began when an unidentified woman put in a call to police headquarters claiming that someone was being beaten up at East Chester

Street and Hasbrouck Avenue. Officers Edward Coughlin and Thomas Coffey responded. When the officers arrived at the scene, Charles Sylvester Scully took off in his 1958 Chevrolet convertible leaving Charles Edward Scully, who was later charged with public intoxication, behind.

The policemen chased the younger Scully down East Chester Street, then, at 3:48 a. m., after he had driven his car to the vicinity of 303 East Chester Street, he was unable to keep his vehicle under control and he crashed into a pickup truck owned by Metro Solian of 299 East Chester Street.

After the impact with the truck, the Scully car kept going and finally hit a retaining wall.

The young man had to be taken to the Kingston Hospital where he was treated for facial bruises. He was later charged with failure to comply with a police order, insufficient lights, passing a double line, speeding, having no registration certification, and failure to keep to the right.

Savago Answers Charges on Fair

County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago today slashed back at criticism that the county had failed to file for available state funds for the improvement of the Ulster County Fair Grounds at New Paltz.

Savago said the county has absolutely nothing to do with the County Fair except that the county gives a $5,500 subsidy to assist in its operation.

The County Fair is operated by the Ulster County Agricultural Society.

In order to be eligible for state funds the sponsors of the County Fair must own the property and building on the fair grounds. The property is owned by Ulster County and the Agricultural Society was advised this made them ineligible for state funds.

Savago said he has been informed that the society was well aware of the availability of state funds and had applied, only to learn the society was ineligible. This was done some time ago when the society learned that funds were available.

The New Paltz Gardiner Republican said the society is to be highly commended for making an attempt to secure the funds. However, under the circumstances, this was not possible.

Meeting Monday Might Settle Rondout Strike

Kingston Housing Authority Chairman George E. Yerry Jr. told The Freeman today that he has succeeded in arranging a meeting between Robie Construction Company and Teamsters Local 445 in Elmsford Monday at 4 p. m. The Teamsters are in dispute with Robie over work procedures at Rondout Gardens.

Robie Construction is the general contractor at the proposed 135-unit public housing unit now under construction on Hasbrouck Avenue in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project.

According to Anthony Alecca, president of Local 445, the dispute arose from the failure of Robie to employ a shop steward on the job while Teamsters were working. Again according to Alecca, Teamster's work was stopped on construction in early January but workers have been on the job in small numbers ever since. Alecca says they have not been under the supervision of a shop steward which he claims is a violation of the contract between Robie and the Teamsters.

Yerry traveled to the Elmsford office of Robie yesterday and succeeded in setting up the meeting. He also conferred with union officials at their executive meeting in Tarrytown. The meeting will be held at a neutral time in Elmsford.

Yerry said the Teamsters have agreed to remove their pickets pending the outcome of talks. The strike does not involve other trades and other unions such as electricians, plumbers and mason workers.

Fire Units Answer Alarms

Fire units in area districts responded to alarms Friday and early today after fires were reported to the County Fire Control Center.

A dispatcher said Sawkill firemen answered a call for a minor blaze yesterday morning, and later Accord fire units quelled a barn fire. Fire Chief Duncan Wilson of Woodstock said Company 4 quelled a chimney fire at the Mitchell home on John Joy Road. Co. 1 also answered the call.

Bloomington firemen yesterday afternoon were called out after a minor blaze was reported, and Highland firemen responded to a call at 6:08 p. m. for a heating unit fire. East Kingston and Olive firemen responded to minor fires this morning, a dispatcher at the control center reported.

Admits Drug Charge

Arrested by State Police on the Thruway south of Albany Friday night, Charles E. Coleman, 35, of Medina, was charged with criminal possession of a dangerous drug. He later pleaded guilty before a local police magistrate and was fined $25. Trooper J. B. Fox said Coleman had in his possession 62 amphetamine tablets. The arrest was made by Trooper John Turck.

Short Tower

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A $600,000 control tower was built four years ago at Kansas City International Airport but it's 61½ feet too short. So the city is going to spend $700,000 to build it 200 feet above the ground.

Workmen will start new footings and build new walls outside the present structure, like a sleeve. The airport will be bigger than originally planned, A Federal Aviation Administration official explained. "If we can't see all the runways, then the airport can't operate."

GOP Hopefuls Trudge Through Primary States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two major announced candidates for the Republican presidential nomination are trudging through the snows of important primary states—George Romney in Wisconsin and Richard M. Nixon in New Hampshire.

Romney milked a cow at Oshkosh Friday, pumped voters' hands in towns in the Fox River Valley and along Lake Michigan, and said he didn't want to be president unless he was helped by the people. Nixon visited New Hampshire for the first time since he became an official candidate and outlined his primary campaign plans.

The former vice president told a Manchester news conference that in addition to the March 12 primary in New Hampshire, he'll enter primaries in Wisconsin, Indiana, South Dakota, Nebraska and Oregon.

He said he won't run against governors who are favorite candidates in Pennsylvania, California, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Boost From Rocky

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is scheduled to boost Romney's campaign at a Feb. 24 fund-raising dinner in Detroit.

The affair was announced by a Romney campaign official, Max Fisher, who scoffed at reports that a write-in campaign is planned in New Hampshire in Rockefeller's behalf.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey spoke at a Democratic gathering in Omaha, Neb., advising his party not to stand on social gains of the last few years because "tomorrow is what counts with the voter."

Humphrey expressed optimism about the party's future "because the unfinished business of America has always been the business of Democrats."

Elsewhere on the political scene:

—Nixon told the Manchester news conference that Florida Gov. Claude Kirk had informed him he'd withdraw his name from the New Hampshire presidential primary ballot.

But a spokesman for Kirk wouldn't confirm Nixon's remarks, saying Kirk will withdraw.

hold comment until he makes a speech in New Hampshire later this month.

—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination in opposition to President Johnson's Vietnam policy, said in Portland, Ore., that if peace talks don't develop, the United States should make a "phased drawback" in Vietnam.

Meeting for Wallace

—Former child movie star Shirley Temple Black said she won't run in June against Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., who defeated her attempt to win a GOP congressional nomination last November.

McCloskey is serving out an unexpired term and must run in June's GOP primary in a bid for a full term.

Claim Pueblo Officer Admitted Intrusion

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea today quoted what it called a "confession" by the research officer of the captured U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo in which he apologized for its intrusion into North Korea waters, begged for release, and said the Johnson administration "forced me to commit such a crime."

North Korea's Korean Central News Agency identified the officer as Lieut. Stephen Harris, 29, of Melrose, Mass. It said he admitted espionage "deep in the coastal waters" of North Korea aboard the Pueblo until it was seized by Communist gun boats Jan. 23. The United States has maintained the vessel was operating on the high seas.

The account, which said members of the 83-man crew were being well treated, ended with this assertion:

"It was a very dirty crime that I committed in the sea of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, though I, as a military man, had merely obeyed orders of my commander. Now I realize what a serious crime I committed. It is the Johnson administration and my commanders that forced me to commit such a crime. I hate them. I deeply repent and sincerely apologize to the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea for my criminal acts. I beg of you to forgive me my crime."

The report said Harris went on to promise that if North Korea "forgives me generously and allows me to return home, I will never again associate myself in such activities. I will oppose the Johnson administration's policy of aggression against other countries when I return to the United States even if I am forfeited from my commission as a U.S. naval officer."

"I now humbly beg for all the kindness in the hearts of the Korean people to allow me to see my dear wife and mother as early as possible." Harris' wife, the North Koreans said, is in Canada and his mother in Boston.

A similar appeal for leniency in an alleged confession Jan. 24 by the Pueblo's captain, Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, touched off speculation the North Koreans might be setting the stage to release the crew on humanitarian grounds following admissions of guilt.

Harris' purported statement gave details not contained in Bucher's, including a statement that the Pueblo was prohibited from transmitting any radio or radar messages during the operation to escape detection. All information was to be reported at the home port, it said.

Two Are Arrested After City Chase

A high speed chase through the streets of Kingston today ended in the arrest of two young men, one of whom received emergency treatment at Kingston Hospital after his speeding car smashed into a wall.

Arrested were Charles Edward Scully, 20, of 42 Stickle Avenue, and Charles Sylvester Scully, 18, of RD 2, Box 43, Kingston.

It all began when an unidentified woman put in a call to police headquarters claiming that someone was being beaten up at East Chester Street and Hasbrouck Avenue.

Officers Edward Coughlin and Thomas Coffey responded. When the officers arrived at the scene, Charles Sylvester Scully took off in his 1958 Chevrolet convertible leaving Charles Edward Scully, who was later charged with public intoxication, behind.

The policemen chased the younger Scully down East Chester Street, then, at 3:48 a. m., after he had driven his car to the vicinity of 303 East Chester Street, he was unable to keep his vehicle under control and he crashed into a pickup truck owned by Metro Solian of 299 East Chester Street.

After the impact with the truck, the Scully car kept going and finally hit a retaining wall.

The young man had to be taken to the Kingston Hospital where he was treated for facial bruises.

He was later charged with failure to comply with a police order, insufficient lights, passing a double line, speeding, having no registration certification, and failure to keep to the right.

Resnick Supports Paying of WW I Debts by France

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick has joined 24 other congressmen in calling for the payment of $7 billion World War I debt France owes the United States.

The resolution asks that the debt be collected for the following reasons:

It is a legal and binding debt.

France has pursued policies inconsistent with the best interests of the United States and the Atlantic Alliance.

The domestic economy of the United States has required spending reductions and the development of new sources of income.

The American people should not be made to subsidize the 50-year old French war debt.

The resolution makes it the sense of Congress that:

It shall be the policy of the United States to require France to immediately begin payment of the debt which totaled $6,850,592,550 at the end of the 1968 fiscal year.

The debt should be fully paid within 20 years.

The president should take whatever steps are necessary to guarantee payment of the debt if France continues to default on its indebtedness.

GOP Hopefuls Trudge Through Primary States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two major announced candidates for the Republican presidential nomination are trudging through the snows of important primary states—George Romney in Wisconsin and Richard M. Nixon in New Hampshire.

Romney milked a cow at Oshkosh Friday, pumped voters' hands in the Fox River Valley and along Lake Michigan, and said he didn't want to be president unless he was helped by the people. Nixon visited New Hampshire for the first time since he became an official candidate and outlined his primary campaign plans.

The former vice president told a Manchester news conference that in addition to the March 12 primary in New Hampshire, he'll enter primaries in Wisconsin, Indiana, South Dakota, Nebraska and Oregon.

He said he won't run against governors who are favorite-son candidates in Pennsylvania, California, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Bevier was arrested Dec. 24 on a warrant and charged with selling a dangerous drug to another person. The drug according to troopers was marijuana.

Edward R. Jackson, 35, of New York City was charged with burglary, third degree, grand larceny, third, and obscenity.

Troopers at the time of the arrest said Jackson was accused of entering the room of another employee at the Granit Hotel, Accord, identified as Pablo Vasquez and had in his possession pornographic pictures.

Saugerties Village Party Caucus Monday

The Village Party of Saugerties has scheduled a caucus Monday, 7:30 p. m. at Dutch Arms Chapel, John Street, to discuss candidates for village trustee in the March 19 elections.

The terms of three village trustees expire this year. They are Richard Underhill Jr., Charles Steele and Arthur D. York.

Although it is still early in the village election campaign, no opposition appears to be in the formative stages at this date. The Village Party candidates have been running unopposed for several years.

Color TV Probed

Some 1,100 employees of the U.S. Public Health Service in Washington, D. C., have volunteered their color television sets in the interest of medical science. In return, they get the sets repaired free.

PHS is worried about the "X-ray hazard potential," especially since one brand of color sets was found to be leaking potentially dangerous radiation.

So, some 20,000 Washington PHS workers were asked to join in an experiment—if they had color sets—and 1,100 volunteered.

What happens is that men carrying geiger counters move quietly around the color sets. Some of this blends right into the program if you're watching, say, "Mission Impossible."

If above-normal radiation is found, the set can be corrected on the spot, either by changing a part or installing a shield.

PHS considers 1,100 a good sample to determine if there is a national problem. The survey should be completed this month and results made public soon after.

There is no word on why the television set manufacturers aren't doing this on their own.

Vets in Public Service

With more than 70,000 new veterans expected each month this year, a total of 840,000, President Johnson asked Congress in a special message for expenditures of 37.1 billion for all veterans benefits and services in the fiscal year starting July 1. The sum is an increase of $300 million over estimated spending for veterans in the current fiscal year.

The President has earmarked $50 million in his new budget for incentive payments to veterans who agree to take special public service jobs—those who volunteer to help teach the children of the poor, to man understrength police forces and fire brigades, to join the staffs of undermanned hospitals or to be enrolled in various new job-training and anti-poverty programs. They money would supplement training grants for these public service jobs.

Traditionally, the Federal government has provided many benefits for veterans. Because of the number and extent of recent wars, the bill for veterans benefits and services has become among the largest of any, after national defense and health and welfare. But no one grudges the veterans. The nation's debt to them for defending its security is never required.

The $50 million fund for incentive payments to veterans who volunteer for public service is especially laudable. These men have learned and defended the nation from the danger abroad. They are particularly well fitted to defend the nation against the danger from within. Recruiting them for police, fire, health, education, job-training and anti-poverty functions should boost those callings both in required numbers and in quality.

Reduction by Attrition

In the 12 months that ended last June 30, the Federal government hired 936,000 persons but as of last November Federal employment was only 112,000 greater than in 1966. The 824,000 difference is due to the fact that most hiring was for replacement—vacancies caused by resignations, retirements and deaths.

As of last November, the full-time Federal civilian work force numbered 2,831,276. Few if any of these people will lose their jobs through the economies ordered by Congress and approved by President Johnson for the current fiscal year ending June 30. That does not mean that these orders will be disregarded. It simply means that the process of attrition—reductions through resignations, retirement and deaths—will take care of the reductions.

Normally, the Civil Service Commission hires 3,600 persons every working day in the year to make up for the normal attrition. Simply by desisting from hiring such replacements, or only those who are essential, the economies will be met. The workers who remain will simply do more, or will be transferred where they can fill holes, and the bureaucracy will carry on.

This shows how much "fat" there is in the civil service ordinarily. We'll watch to see what the federal payroll shows June 30, and how well the process of attrition has achieved the economies ordered.

Court martialled for refusing to wear his Army uniform, Private Robert W. Meares, 19, of Fayetteville, N.C., volunteered for duty in Vietnam after his parents talked over his problem with him. Parental advice outweighed the qualms he harbored.

The 60,000 monthly tenants of New York garages have been notified to remove their cars, the doors will be locked if garage employees strike. Street parking spaces are continuously filled in the big city. The garage parked cars have no place else to go.

Which Just About Covers Everything

Henry J. Taylor Says

Washington's Soviet Cover-up Policy

Typically, one of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's last official acts was to start to play down the Soviet's nod for the North Korean seizure of the Pueblo. North Korea could no more do this without a green light from Moscow than Kosygin could march in the St. Patrick's Day parade. It will be a blessing if incoming Defense Secretary Clark Clifford will at once abandon Mr. McNamara's entire Soviet cover-up policy.

Mr. McNamara has applied it ever since his first denials that the Kremlin was installing missiles in Cuba, including a denial of this writer's information when this column exposed the facts.

Nor has Mr. McNamara called a spade a spade about the U.S.S.R. since the moment of his own involvement in the Bay of Pigs, right through to the question of how the North Vietnamese can keep on fighting in Vietnam in the face of the greatest American firepower ever assembled in one place in the history of the United States.

Mr. McNamara never admitted until two months later, for example, what this column announced, namely, that in spite of Red transshipments to North Vietnam, we have licensed for delivery to the Soviet and its satellites airborne navigational equipment, radio and radar communication receivers and parts, vacuum gauges, radiation and other precision instruments, refrigeration compressors, electronic computers, pyrotechnical rocket engines, rotary combustion machines, data processing systems, strategic chemicals like antiozonant for synthetic rubber, ammonia plants, a styrene (for plastics) factory, a big hydrogen plant and other dikes too numerous to name to list. Nor did Mr. McNamara reveal that the Defense Department has been buying Red Chinese steel through Mao Tse-tung's dummies in Hong Kong for our airports and other U. S. Vietnam installations.

To let us know would have crossed up President Johnson's insistence on "building bridges" to the Red bloc. Aren't we entitled to know that these are the kind of bridges our enemy really wants?

Red China's aid is important, but Hanoi's war could not continue for an estimated 30 days without Soviet support, especially since Red China's internal explosion.

A confidential review by senior U. S. Navy officers aboard our carriers at what is called "Yankee Station" off Vietnam, reported in this column as long ago as last July 12, showed that without exception every pilot who had braved the flak of World War II and Korea (immense) stated they would not have believed there could be ground defenses as murderous as they now face daily.

The Soviet Union is supplying all—the petroleum, gasoline, grease and aviation fuel for the North Vietnamese. It is providing all the sophisticated weapons and weapons systems. The Kremlin is supplying all the MIG planes. Russia not only installed the entire vast North Vietnamese anti-aircraft defense network, but maintains and supports much of it with

Soviet "technicians."

Incredibly, more than 800 U. S. planes have gone down over North Vietnam alone. Members of the House Armed Services Committee returning from Vietnam have learned from our Saigon command that over 5,000 Soviet ground-to-air missiles (SAMs) have been fired at our planes by Soviet ground personnel and "technicians." Recently, these lethal Soviet SAMs so successfully broke through our planes' anti-missile protection systems that they forced on us costly new tactics.

Although U. S. planes and flyers are lost directly to the lethal Soviet SAMs, a great many more are lost because of the added hazards these Russian missiles create.

The Soviet supplies, and in some cases services, four-fifths of all the explosives and munitions of all kinds used against us, which have already killed almost 20,000 Americans and wounded over 100,000 more of our men. This is 80 per cent of all the bullets, mines, bombs and shells of all kinds.

Washington's Soviet cover-up policy has been a systematized public relations ploy to make it appear that by Washington statesmanship our relations with the U.S.S.R. have been improved, whereas in simple truth the Kremlin has been just playing cat and mouse with us throughout the entire time—and still is.

We can only hope that incoming Defense Secretary Clark Clifford will abandon this Soviet cover-up policy and, at long last, tear away the sham and rip the McNamara mask off the face of our Soviet enemy.

Constitutional Convention Foes Get Breathing Spell

By BRUCE BISSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The immediate threat is over, but for a time there was a fresh eruption of concern on Capitol Hill that Congress might have to consider calling a U. S. constitutional convention in response to state demands.

In December the Wisconsin Senate approved a resolution asking for a convention, but the state's legislature adjourned without necessary corresponding action in the lower house.

Had Wisconsin endorsed the measure fully, it would have raised to 35 the number of states which have approved the constitutional convention idea. Thirty-four states—two-thirds of the 50—must support it before Congress is required to act.

The Wisconsin move made opponents of the plan jittery. But its legislature does not meet regularly again until 1969, and there is no present prospect of a special session this year.

As a matter of fact, Wisconsin is now one of four states—the others being Alaska, Delaware and Iowa—wherein one house of the legislature has endorsed the convention call. In none of these, evidently, is there likelihood of action soon in the second house.

Furthermore, a good chance exists that in Maryland, one of the 32 states on the approving list, the legislature may overturn its earlier endorsement. In 1967 a similar attempt at rescission narrowly missed. A successful move would cut the list to 31.

Organizations opposing the calling of a federal convention say there have been some proconvention stirrings in Pennsylvania. But they seem to doubt that decisive action is likely either there or anywhere else that has not already produced real moves in one legislative house or both.

Since the "margin of safety" currently is so slender, however, opposition groups are quietly exploring the prospects of rescission efforts in other states than just Maryland. Yet at the moment nothing firm is in sight.

The 32 states which have endorsed summoning a constitutional convention:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming.

It should be noted that the proposition has swept all of the 11 Old South states, all eight Mountain states, all five Plains states, and five of the nine Midwest states. For this conservative-sponsored proposal there are few conservative strongholds left unconquered.

On the other hand, only Illinois, Texas and Florida of the nation's 10 most populous states have approved. The approving list includes just one New England state, one in the crowded Middle Atlantic group (Maryland), and Washington state alone among five Pacific states. In 1967 Washington nearly rescinded its approval.

Two states—Washington and Wyoming—have approved a 1965 version of the proposal which would ask a convention to give the states blanket power over state legislative reapportionment. The other 30 voted for a 1965 version demanding a convention to act favorably upon the so-called "Dirksen" amendment. It would permit factors other than population to be considered in apportioning at least one state legislative house. Under controversial Supreme Court rulings, population now governs in redistricting both houses.

Opponents of the whole drive fear, of course, that if a constitutional convention ever were called, the entire U. S. Constitution might be assaulted by special-interest raiding parties on many fronts.

Drew Pearson Says South Vietnamese Resent Their American 'Saviors'

TERROR IN SAIGON

A forecast of trouble to come in Saigon was published Jan. 28 by Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson when they reported that ordinary South Vietnamese, not the Viet Cong, were blowing up Saigon. The acts of terror were attributed to anti-American feeling which was reported to have increased alarmingly.

The Viet Cong raid on the American Embassy in Saigon two days later, which must have local help, appears to have borne out this column.

WASHINGTON—The Viet Cong penetration of the American Embassy in the heart of Saigon this week was accomplished partly because of the bitterness of the South Vietnamese people toward United States.

The American public has not realized how deeply we are resented by the people we are supposed to be saving.

The South Vietnamese not only have bombed American offices and service men's clubs, entirely independent of the Viet Cong—as reported by this column last week—but they have helped Viet Cong suicide squads smuggle themselves into the heart of the city. Bombs have been found which clearly came from ordinary South Vietnamese, not from the Viet Cong.

This anti-American sentiment is one point which Secretary of Defense McNamara constantly hammered home as a reason for not increasing American troops. He urged that the greater the number of troops, the greater strain on South Vietnam's economy and the greater the resentment against the United States. American troops monopolize the taxis, the restaurants, the best looking girls. They have turned the economy of the cities upside down and bombed some of the villages inside out. They are disliked, sometimes hated, in both.

If a plebiscite were taken as to whether the United States should remain in the country it is supposed to save, a majority would probably vote "Yankee Go Home."

This, incidentally, was a suggestion advanced by former Under Secretary of State George Ball as a logical excuse for withdrawing from South Vietnam. We could simply comply with the South Vietnamese people's request to leave.

Note: One failure of American officials in Saigon is that of not cultivating South Vietnamese civilian leaders. We have concentrated on the military, and they are not loved in their own country.

Korea vs. Vietnam

There can be no question about the connection between events in South Vietnam. You need only read the speeches of North Korean leaders urging diversionary tactics against the United States to relieve pressure on North Vietnam to understand this.

More important, you should read the speeches of former President Eisenhower, John Foster Dulles and the former Senator from Texas, Lyndon B. Johnson. On the day the Korean truce was signed by the Eisenhower administration, July 27, 1952, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson remarked: "This is the time to recall (Eisenhower's words of three months ago) that any truce that merely releases aggressive armies to attack elsewhere would be a fraud."

Both Johnson and Eisenhower were right. The pressure on what was then French Indo-China was stepped up shortly after the Korean truce was signed. Eisenhower himself warned of this in his speech before the Governors' Conference in Seattle in the summer of 1953.

President Syngman Rhee of South Korea remarked: "I have opposed the signing of the truce because of my conviction that it will prove to be the prelude to more war, not less; to more suffering and ruin; to further communist advances by war and by subversion."

Harry Truman, then out of office, remarked: "I could have negotiated the same kind of truce Eisenhower got, at any time during the past two years."

Another Junket

We apologize for overlooking one luxurious Congressional junket during the Christmas recess. It was taken by a House Public Works Subcommittee to the sunny clime of Puerto Rico, allegedly to study "river and harbor projects." There are not many rivers in the island and the harbors are pretty good; so the committee threw in one federal building to be inspected for renovation.

Those who took the trip were: Democrats George Fallon, Md., the chairman; Kenneth Gray, Ill., John Kluczynski, Ill., James Howard, N.J., and Republican William Harsha, Ohio.

Fallon was very strict about holding a meeting every morning at 10 o'clock in the lounge of the Hotel Caribe. His colleagues usually showed up in beach attire, though Fallon himself was dressed in a businesslike blue suit.

The group made one "inspection" trip not on the agenda, to St. Thomas in the beautiful Virgin Islands.

It was tough returning to the wintry clime of Washington, but everyone had a nice sunset when the bells rang for the reopening of Congress. (© 1968, by Bell-McClure Syndicate)

Mideast Farther From Peace, Stability Than in 50 Years

By GEORGE WELLER

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

ROME, Jan. 31—The Middle East, a sterile sand pit of pipelines, airfields, strategic waterways, refugees, terrorists, sheiks, soldiers, Atheist messiahs and handout-happy great powers, is farther from peace and stability than at any time in 50 years.

Soviet and Communist penetration is increasing with a power-oriented program of military training and arms-for-all-Arabs. The balance of power, east vs. west, is gone. Britain is deliberately abandoning her responsibilities, not bothering even to seek an heir, gambling that the United States will have to protect her investments in the still prospering oil companies.

France led by Charles De Gaulle is quietly slipping over to the Soviet side, harmoniously sharing influence in Algeria, the Levant, and Iraq. The United States, lacking any policy but support of Israel, seems virtually to have abandoned any effort to establish political, military or economic contacts among the 80,000,000 Arabs. The 6th Fleet can command the Mediterranean's northern shore, but the Soviet fleet has Africa's.

Israel and the United Arab Republic, in the words of their spokesman Moshe Dayan and Gamel Abdel Nasser, profess agreement on only one point: That an era of violence is beginning. The test is whether Israel, like the Jerusalem-focused crusader empire, can last a century.

After the clashes of 1948 and 1956, the U.A.R. and Israel at least were agreed that the Suez Canal should be opened, but not now. Israel, by keeping closed the northern entrance to the canal, serves the United States. She delays, however, briefly, the Soviet Fleet's entrance into the Red Sea, where Russia and the U.A.R. have shared bases for four years at Ras Benas and in Yemen at Hodeida.

By depriving Nasser of $200,000,000 (M) yearly in canal revenues, Israel forces him into the reluctant hands of Arabia's three rich bankers, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Libya. Together the three Arab kingdoms have offered help at a rate of $135,000,000 (M) yearly to uphold the U.A.R. They also are giving another $75,000,000 (M) to support refugee-loaded Jordan suddenly deserted by the United States after past help totaling $336,000,000 (M).

Bypassing the Canal
Israel has captured enough oilfields from Nasser to meet her own needs. Now she is aiming to reduce its canal traffic, which is three-quarters oil tankers, by building a giant pipeline from the Gulf of Aqaba on the Red Sea to Haifa on the Mediterranean. This would bypass the canal. Almost as eager as the Soviets and the Arab kingdoms to get the canal opened, Nasser has enlisted another potential ally in resuming his severed relations with Britain. Britain, losing an estimated $50,000,000 (M) annually in extra shipping charges eastward, can be counted on to try to pry the Israeli grip off the canal.

Anglo-American co-operation seems virtually to have ceased under the Wilson government, so far as the Middle East is concerned. The United States refuses to resume relations with Nasser until he, or at least a qualified spokesman, repudiates the lie that American and British planes aided Israel. British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, however, anxious to get back his Cairo embassy has asked no recantation.

The penny-wise and pound foolishness of Britain's withdrawal sows confusion. In the Persian Gulf, location of one-third of the world's known petroleum supplies and the main source of fresh capital for the London money market, the British are canceling defense agreements to save $35,000,000 (M) a year, the upkeep of 7,000 soldiers. At Aden, however, surrendered two months ago to the Arab guerrillas of the People's Republic of South Yemen, the British are agreeing to contribute $35,000,000 (M) a year to the anti-Western government that kicked them out. Moreover, the British refinery at Aden sells the aviation gas used by the Soviet Air Force in Yemen.

President Johnson's Flying Inspector of the Middle East situation, ex-ambassador Julius Holmes, is supposed to have made 31 suggestions for correcting the growing unbalance of power. In this critical month of the American presidential campaign it is as impossible for Mr. Johnson to turn to neutralism in the Palestine struggle as it is to criticize the $150,000,000 (M) in private contributions from U.S. citizens to Israel, or the tax-free status of these gifts. However the war in Vietnam goes, the Soviets can count on the exigencies of American political life, so carefully described by George Kennan in his "Memories," to hamper if not cripple remedial action in the Middle East.

Editor, The Freeman:

I just finished reading The Freeman of December 29, 1967. On page four is the best of all articles. In fact, it has many good articles. One is "Top Priorities," and the second, "Protesters Know Very Little About Viet War." These are two outstanding articles. I know your paper wouldn't publish them unless you believed in them.

I showed the paper to many and I say I'm proud of the Kingston Daily Freeman, my hometown paper.

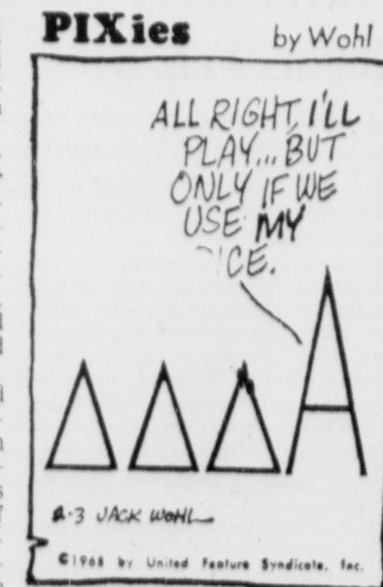

Keep up the outstanding job.

Color TV Probed

Some 1,100 employees of the U.S. Public Health Service in Washington, D. C., have volunteered their color television sets in the interest of medical science. In return, they get the sets repaired free.

PHS is worried about the "X-ray hazard potential," especially since one brand of color sets was found to be leaking potentially dangerous radiation.

So, some 20,000 Washington PHS workers were asked to join in an experiment—if they had color sets—and 1,100 volunteered.

What happens is that men carrying geiger counters move quietly around the color sets. Some of this blends right into the program if you're watching, say, "Mission Impossible."

If above-normal radiation is found, the set can be corrected on the spot, either by changing a part or installing a shield.

PHS considers 1,100 a good sample to determine if there is a national problem. The survey should be completed this month and results made public soon after.

There is no word on why the television set manufacturers aren't doing this on their own.

Vets in Public Service

With more than 70,000 new veterans expected each month this year, a total of 840,000, President Johnson asked Congress in a special message for expenditures of 37.1 billion for all veterans benefits and services in the fiscal year starting July 1. The sum is an increase of $300 million over estimated spending for veterans in the current fiscal year.

The President has earmarked $50 million in his new budget for incentive payments to veterans who agree to take special public service jobs—those who volunteer to help teach the children of the poor, to man understrength police forces and fire brigades, to join the staffs of undermanned hospitals or to be enrolled in various new job-training and anti-poverty programs. They money would supplement training grants for these public service jobs.

Traditionally, the Federal government has provided many benefits for veterans. Because of the number and extent of recent wars, the bill for veterans benefits and services has become among the largest of any, after national defense and health and welfare. But no one grudges the veterans. The nation's debt to them for defending its security is never requited.

The $50 million fund for incentive payments to veterans who volunteer for public service is especially laudable. These men have learned and defended the nation from the danger abroad. They are particularly well fitted to defend the nation against the danger from within. Recruiting them for police, fire, health, education, job-training and anti-poverty functions should boost those callings both in required numbers and in quality.

Reduction by Attrition

In the 12 months that ended last June 30, the Federal government hired 936,000 persons but as of last November Federal employment was only 112,000 greater than in 1966. The 824,000 difference is due to the fact that most hiring was for replacement—vacancies caused by resignations, retirements and deaths.

As of last November, the full-time Federal civilian work force numbered 2,831,276. Few if any of these people will lose their jobs through the economies ordered by Congress and approved by President Johnson for the current fiscal year ending June 30. That does not mean that these orders will be disregarded. It simply means that the process of attrition—reductions through resignations, retirement and deaths—will take care of the reductions.

Normally, the Civil Service Commission hires 3,600 persons every working day in the year to make up for the normal attrition. Simply by desisting from hiring such replacements, or only those who are essential, the economies will be met. The workers who remain will simply do more, or will be transferred where they can fill holes, and the bureaucracy will carry on.

This shows how much "fat" there is in the civil service ordinarily. We'll watch to see what the federal payroll shows June 30, and how well the process of attrition has achieved the economies ordered.

Court martialled for refusing to wear his Army uniform, Private Robert W. Meares, 19, of Fayetteville, N.C., volunteered for duty in Vietnam after his parents talked over his problem with him. Parental advice outweighed the qualms he harbored.

The 60,000 monthly tenants of New York garages have been notified to remove their cars, the doors will be locked if garage employees strike. Street parking spaces are continuously filled in the big city. The garage parked cars have no place else to go.

Which Just About Covers Everything

Henry J. Taylor Says

Washington's Soviet Cover-up Policy

Typically, one of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's last official acts was to start to play down the Soviet's nod for the North Korean seizure of the Pueblo. North Korea could no more do this without a green light from Moscow than Kosygin could march in the St. Patrick's Day parade. It will be a blessing if incoming Defense Secretary Clark Clifford will at once abandon Mr. McNamara's entire Soviet cover-up policy.

Mr. McNamara has applied it ever since his first denials that the Kremlin was installing missiles in Cuba, including a denial of this writer's information when this column exposed the facts.

Nor has Mr. McNamara called a spade a spade about the U.S.S.R. since the moment of his own involvement in the Bay of Pigs, right through to the question of how the North Vietnamese can keep on fighting in Vietnam in the face of the greatest American firepower ever assembled in one place in the history of the United States.

Mr. McNamara never admitted until two months later, for example, what this column announced, namely, that in spite of Red transshipments to North Vietnam, we have licensed for delivery to the Soviet and its satellites airborne navigational equipment, radio and radar communication receivers and parts, vacuum gauges, radiation and other precision instruments, refrigeration compressors, electronic computers, pyrotechnical rocket engines, rotary combustion machines, data processing systems, strategic chemicals like antiozonant for synthetic rubber, ammonia plants, a styrene (for plastics) factory, a big hydrogen plant and other dillies too numerous for me to list. Nor did Mr. McNamara reveal that the Defense Department has been buying Red Chinese steel through Mao Tse-tung's dummies in Hong Kong for our airports and other U. S. Vietnam installations.

To let us know would have crossed up President Johnson's insistence on "building bridges" to the Red bloc. Aren't we entitled to know that these are the kind of bridges our enemy really wants?

Red China's aid is important, but Hanoi's war could not continue for an estimated 30 days without Soviet support, especially since Red China's internal explosion.

A confidential review by senior U. S. Navy officers aboard our carriers at what is called "Yankee Station" off Vietnam, reported in this column as long ago as last July 12, showed that without exception every pilot who had braved the flak of World War II and Korea (immense) stated they would not have believed there could be ground defenses as murderous as they now face daily.

The Soviet Union is supplying all—the petroleum, gasoline, grease and aviation fuel for the North Vietnamese. It is providing all the sophisticated weapons and weapons systems. The Kremlin is supplying all the MIG planes. Russia not only installed the entire vast North Vietnamese anti-aircraft defense network, but maintains and supports much of it with

Incredibly, more than 800 U. S. planes have gone down over North Vietnam alone. Members of the House Armed Services Committee returning from Vietnam have learned from our Saigon command that over 5,000 Soviet ground-to-air missiles (SAMs) have been fired at our planes by Soviet ground personnel and "technicians." Recently, these lethal Soviet SAMs so successfully broke through our planes' anti-missile protection systems that they forced on us costly new tactics. Although U. S. planes and flyers are lost directly to the lethal Soviet SAMs, a great many more are lost because of the added hazards these Russian missiles create.

The Soviet supplies, and in some cases services, four-fifths of all the explosives and munitions of all kinds used against us, which have already killed almost 20,000 Americans and wounded over 100,000 more of our men. This is 80 per cent of all the bullets, mines, bombs and shells of all kinds.

Washington's Soviet cover-up policy has been a systematized public relations ploy to make it appear that by Washington statesmanship our relations with the U.S.S.R. have been improved, whereas in simple truth the Kremlin has been just playing cat and mouse with us throughout the entire time—and still is.

We can only hope that incoming Defense Secretary Clark Clifford will abandon this Soviet cover-up policy and, at long last, tear away the sham and rip the McNamara mask off the face of our Soviet enemy.

Constitutional Convention Foes Get Breathing Spell

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington (NEA) —

The immediate threat is over, but for a time there was a fresh eruption of concern on Capitol Hill that Congress might have to consider calling a U. S. constitutional convention in response to state demands.

In December the Wisconsin Senate approved a resolution asking for a convention, but the state's legislature adjourned without necessary corresponding action in the lower house.

Had Wisconsin endorsed the measure fully, it would have raised to 35 the number of states which have approved the constitutional convention idea. Thirty-four states—two-thirds of the 50—must support it before Congress is required to act.

The Wisconsin move made opponents of the plan jittery. But its legislature does not meet regularly again until 1969, and there is no present prospect of a special session this year.

As a matter of fact, Wisconsin is now one of four states—the others being Alaska, Delaware and Iowa—wherein one house of the legislature has endorsed the convention call. In none of these, evidently, is there likelihood of action soon in the second house.

Furthermore, a good chance exists that in Maryland, one of the 32 states on the approving list, the legislature may overturn its earlier endorsement. In 1967 a similar attempt at rescission narrowly missed. A successful move would cut the list to 31.

Organizations opposing the calling of a federal convention say there have been some proconvention stirrings in Pennsylvania. But they seem to doubt that decisive action is likely either there or anywhere else that has not already produced real moves in one legislative house or both.

Since the "margin of safety" currently is so slender, however, opposition groups are quietly exploring the prospects of rescission efforts in other states than just Maryland. Yet at the moment nothing firm is in sight.

The 32 states which have endorsed summoning a constitutional convention:

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington and Wyoming.

It should be noted that the proposition has swept all of the 11 Old South states, all eight Mountain states, all five Plains states, and five of the nine Midwest states. For this conservative-sponsored proposal there are few conservative strongholds left unconquered.

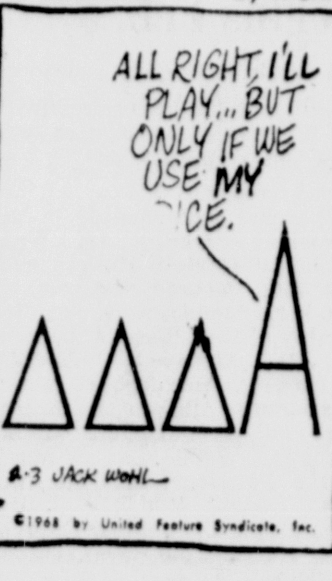

On the other hand, only Illinois, Texas and Florida of the nation's 10 most populous states have approved. The approving list includes just one New England state, one in the crowded Middle Atlantic group (Maryland), and Washington state alone among five Pacific states. In 1967 Washington nearly rescinded its approval.

Two states—Washington and Wyoming—have approved a 1965 version of the proposal which would ask a convention to give the states blanket power over state legislative reapportionment. The other 30 voted for a 1965 version demanding a convention to act favorably upon the so-called Dirksen amendment. It would permit factors other than population to be considered in apportioning at least one state legislative house. Under controversial Supreme Court rulings, population now governs in redistricting both houses.

Opponents of the whole drive fear, of course, that if a constitutional convention ever were called, the entire U. S. Constitution might be assaulted by special-interest raiding parties on many fronts.

Drew Pearson Says South Vietnamese Resent Their American 'Saviors'

TERROR IN SAIGON
A forecast of trouble to come in Saigon was published Jan. 28 by Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson when they reported that ordinary South Vietnamese, not the Viet Cong, were blowing up Saigon. The acts of terror were attributed to anti-American feeling which was reported to have increased alarmingly.

The Viet Cong raid on the American Embassy in Saigon two days later, which must have local help, appears to have borne out this column.

WASHINGTON—The Viet Cong penetration of the American Embassy in the heart of Saigon this week was accomplished partly because of the bitterness of the South Vietnamese people toward United States.

The American public has not realized how deeply we are resented by the people we are supposed to be saving.

The South Vietnamese not only have bombed American offices and service men's clubs, entirely independent of the Viet Cong—as reported by this column last week—but they have helped Viet Cong suicide squads smuggle themselves into the heart of the city. Bombs have been found which clearly came from ordinary South Vietnamese, not from the Viet Cong.

This anti-American sentiment is one point which Secretary of Defense McNamara constantly hammered home as a reason for not increasing American troops. He urged that the greater the number of troops, the greater strain on South Vietnam's economy and the greater the resentment against the United States. American troops monopolize the taxis, the restaurants, the best looking girls. They have turned the economy of the cities upside down and bombed some of the villages inside out. They are disliked, sometimes hated, in both.

If a plebiscite were taken as to whether the United States should remain in the country it is supposed to save, a majority would probably vote "Yankee Go Home."

This, incidentally, was a suggestion advanced by former Under Secretary of State George Ball as a logical excuse for withdrawing from South Vietnam. We could simply comply with the South Vietnamese people's request to leave.

Note: One failure of American officials in Saigon is that of not cultivating South Vietnamese civilian leaders. We have concentrated on the military, and they are not loved in their own country.

Korea vs. Vietnam

There can be no question about the connection between events in South Vietnam. We need only read the speeches of North Korean leaders urging diversionary tactics against the United States to relieve pressure on North Vietnam to understand this.

More important, you should read the speeches of former President Eisenhower, John Foster Dulles and the former Senator from Texas, Lyndon B. Johnson. On the day the Korean truce was signed by the Eisenhower administration, July 27, 1952, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson remarked: "This is the time to recall (Eisenhower's words of three months ago) that any truce that merely releases aggressive armies to attack elsewhere would be a fraud."

Both Johnson and Eisenhower were right. The pressure on what was then French Indo-China was stepped up shortly after the Korean truce was signed. Eisenhower himself warned of this in his speech before the Governors' Conference in Seattle in the summer of 1953.

President Syngman Rhee of South Korea remarked: "I have opposed the signing of the truce because of my conviction that it will prove to be the prelude to more war, not less; to more suffering and ruin; to further communist advances by war and by subversion."

Harry Truman, then out of office, remarked: "I could have negotiated the same kind of truce Eisenhower got, at any time during the past two years."

Another Junkie

We apologize for overlooking one luxurious Congressional junket during the Christmas recess. It was taken by a House Public Works Subcommittee to the sunny clime of Puerto Rico, allegedly to study "river and harbor projects." There are not many rivers in the island and the harbors are pretty good; so the committee threw in one federal building to be inspected for renovation.

Those who took the trip were: Democrats George Fallon, Md., the chairman; Kenneth Gray, Ill., John Kluczynski, Ill., James Howard, N.J., and Republican William Harsha, Ohio.

Fallon was very strict about holding a meeting every morning at 10 o'clock in the lounge of the Hotel Caribe. His colleagues usually showed up in beach attire, though Fallon himself was dressed in a businesslike blue suit.

The group made one "inspection" trip not on the agenda, to St. Thomas in the beautiful Virgin Islands.

It was tough returning to the wintry clime of Washington, but everyone had a nice suntan when the bells rang for the reopening of Congress. (© 1968, by Bell-McClure Syndicate)

Mideast Farther From Peace, Stability Than in 50 Years

By GEORGE WELLER

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

ROME, Jan. 31.—The Middle East, a sterile sand pit of pipelines, airfields, strategic waterways, refugees, terrorists, sheiks, soldiers, Atheist messiahs and handout-happy great powers, is farther from peace and stability than at any time in 50 years.

Soviet and Communist penetration is increasing with a power-oriented program of military training and arm-for-all-Arabs. The balance of power, east vs. west, is gone. Britain is deliberately abandoning her responsibilities, not bothering even to seek an heir, gambling that the United States will have to protect her investments in the still prospering oil companies.

France led by Charles De Gaulle is quietly slipping over to the Soviet side, harmoniously sharing influence in Algeria, the Levant, and Iraq.

The United States, lacking any policy but support of Israel, seems virtually to have abandoned any effort to establish political, military or economic contacts among the 80,000,000 Arabs. The 6th Fleet can command the Mediterranean's northern shore, but the Soviet fleet has Africa's.

Israel and the United Arab Republic, in the words of their spokesman Moshe Dayan and Gamel Abdel Nasser, profess agreement on only one point: That an era of violence is beginning. The test is whether Israel, like the Jerusalem-focused crusader empire, can last a century.

After the clashes of 1948 and 1956, the U.A.R. and Israel at least were agreed that the Suez Canal should be opened, but not now. Israel, by keeping closed the northern entrance to the canal, serves the United States. She delays, however, briefly, the Soviet Fleet's entrance into the Red Sea, where Russia and the U.A.R. have shared bases for four years at Ras Benas and in Yemen at Hodeida.

By depriving Nasser of $200,000,000 (M) yearly in canal revenues, Israel forces him into the reluctant hands of Arabia's three rich bankers, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Libya. Together, the three Arab kingdoms have offered help at a rate of $135,000,000 (M) yearly to uphold the U.A.R. They also are giving another $75,000,000 (M) to support refugee-loaded Jordan suddenly deserted by the United States after past help totaling $356,000,000 (M).

Bypassing the Canal

Israel has captured enough oilfields from Nasser to meet her own needs. Now she is aiming to reduce her canal traffic, which is three-quarters oil tankers, by building a giant pipeline from the Gulf of Agaba on the Red Sea to Haifa on the Mediterranean. This would bypass the canal.

Always as eager as the Soviets and the Arab kingdoms to get the canal opened, Nasser has enlisted another potential ally in resuming his severed relations with Britain. Britain, losing an estimated $50,000,000 (M) annually in extra shipping charges eastward, can be counted on to try to pry the Israeli grip off the canal.

Anglo-American co-operation seems virtually to have ceased under the Wilson government, so far as the Middle East is concerned. The United States refuses to resume relations with Nasser until he, or at least a qualified spokesman, repudiates the lie that American and British planes aided Israel. British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, however, anxious to get back his Cairo embassy has asked no recantation.

The penny-wise and pound foolishness of Britain's withdrawal sows confusion. In the Persian Gulf, location of one-third of the world's known petroleum supplies and the main source of fresh capital for the London money market, the British are canceling defense agreements to save $35,000,000 (M) a year, the upkeep of 7,000 soldiers. At Aden, however, surrendered two months ago to the Arab guerrillas of the People's Republic of South Yemen, the British are agreeing to contribute $35,000,000 (M) a year to the anti-Western government that kicked them out. Moreover, the British refinery at Aden sells the aviation gas used by the Soviet Air Force in Yemen.

President Johnson's Flying Inspector of the Middle East situation, ex-ambassador Julius Holmes, is supposed to have made 31 suggestions for correcting the growing imbalance of power. In this critical months of the American presidential campaign it is as impossible for Mr. Johnson to turn to neutralism in the Palestine struggle as it is to criticize the $150,000,000 (M) in private contributions from U. S. citizens to Israel, or the tax-free status of these gifts.

However the war in Vietnam goes, the Soviets can count on the exigencies of American political life, so carefully described by George Kennan in his "memories," to hamper if not cripple remedial action in the Middle East.

Editor, The Freeman:

I just finished reading The Freeman of December 29, 1967. On page four is the best of all articles. In fact, it has many good articles. One is "Top Priorities," and the second, "Protesters Know Very Little About Viet War." These are two outstanding articles. I know your paper wouldn't publish them unless you believed in them.

I showed the paper to many and I say I'm proud of the Kingston Daily Freeman, my hometown paper.

Keep up the outstanding job.

Hints from Heloise

Ladies:

I've been sewing up a storm and making alterations for a week now. Here's something I learned that I want you to pluck out of the air and put in your pocket:

Don't put your steam iron on wools, jerseys, stretch material and such.

More-better-yet, don't iron it or press it on a silicone ironing board cover. Go get your heaviest bath towel and fold it double on your ironing board. Lay your material face side down and hold your steam iron at least a quarter inch above it, letting that steam get into the material. Then take your hand and go pat, pat, pat on the material.

This way you will completely avoid a shine. I came out with the most beautiful results.

I learned this from going through a dry cleaning plant but didn't know we could do it at home. I thought we didn't have the equipment until I tried pouring water in my steam iron and letting it sit at least five minutes before using it. Put it on full blast and turn it to linen so that it will have the most heat possible and watch that steam come out.

Gals, it does the greatest job ever.

Dear Heloise:

When those canceled checks come back, I just clip off a corner of the stub. Then it's easy to see which checks are outstanding.

I find this better than marking the stub with a red pencil.

Dear Heloise:

I have window shades with pulls made of a double cord. When the shade is up too high for me to reach, I just take a wire hanger and bend it straight leaving the hook as is. Then I slip the hook into the shade pull and pull the shade down easily.

Saves me getting something to stand on to reach it.

It is also a safety factor. Let's multiply that out.

Hints from Heloise

Ladies:

I've been sewing up a storm and making alterations for a week now. Here's something I learned that I want you to pluck out of the air and put in your pocket:

Don't put your steam iron on wools, jerseys, stretch material and such.

More-better-yet, don't iron it or press it on a silicone ironing board cover. Go get your heaviest bath towel and fold it double on your ironing board. Lay your material face side down and hold your steam iron at least a quarter inch above it, letting that steam get into the material. Then take your hand and go pat, pat, pat on the material.

This way you will completely avoid a shine. I came out with the most beautiful results.

I learned this from going through a dry cleaning plant but didn't know we could do it at home. I thought we didn't have the equipment until I tried pouring water in my steam iron and letting it sit at least five minutes before using it. Put it on full blast and turn it to linen so that it will have the most heat possible and watch that steam come out.

Gals, it does the greatest job ever.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When those canceled checks come back, I just clip off a corner of the stub. Then it's easy to see which checks are outstanding.

I find this better than marking the stub with a red pencil.

Anita

Dear Heloise:

I have window shades with pulls made of a double cord. When the shade is up too high for me to reach, I just take a wire hanger and bend it straight leaving the hook as is. Then I slip the hook into the shade pull and pull the shade down easily.

Saves me getting something to stand on to reach it.

Mrs. Helen Stewart

It is also a safety factor. Let's multiply that out . . .

Rondout Wrestlers Gain Ninth Victory

Rondout Valley's wrestling team hiked its season record to 9-1-0 yesterday, trouncing visiting Walkkill 38-14, but Dave Bartholomew, Walkkill 106-pounder, stole the spotlight by registering a 5-0 win for his 23rd consecutive dual meet victory.

Walkkill jumped to an early 6-0 lead when Steve Bartholomew and his brother, Dave, registered decisions in the first two weights, 98 and 105 pounds. Dave's skien-extending win was 10 straight and came over Rondout freshman Tom Coddington.

Rondout came back with three pins and a decision to open an 18-6 lead before Walkill's Pete McCann won via a pin.

Rondout and Walkill swapped the next two, but the Ganders' clinched the match when Tom Frazier, who chalked up his 8th straight win after two opening defeats, pinned the Blue Devils' Ray DeVoe in 2:48.

Rondout's co-captain Mike Martin topped his career record to 14-6-2, flattening the Devils & Emil Ellison in 3:53 in the 123-pound bout.

Highland Cops First UCAL Game, 80-75

Highland High finally managed its first UCAL basketball victory last night, downing visiting New Paltz, 80-75, in overtime and with its highest score of the year.

The regulation contest ended 68-68 all after a Highland rally had wiped out a 11-point deficit at the end of three quarters.

With four seconds left in the overtime period, Highland led 76-75. Ella converted two foul tries to raise the total to 78-75. Doug Sisco stole the inbound pass and drove in for an easy layup that iced the game, 80-75, the ball going through the hoop after the buzzer had sounded.

Highland had been down as many as 19 points with about seven minutes to go in the last period. Lance Mann was practically flying, as he brought down 24 rebounds for Highland. New Paltz managed 46 team rebounds and Highland tore the boards up with 67.

Both teams went with a zone, Highland 1-2-2 and New Paltz 1-2-2.

Highland won the jayvee game.

NEW PALTZ — Coach Doug Sheppard's State University Hawks, stunned by the news that high scoring Ty Sands would be lost for the remainder of the season, tried harder Friday night and forced high powered Buffalo State to the limit before yielding a 66-60 decision.

Sands, former Monticello High star who was leading the Hawks with a 25-plus average, announced his retirement just before game time. The senior ace said the pressure of student teaching and basketball was too much and he had decided to concentrate on teaching.

With Sands gone, Coach Sheppard moved Jeffrey Berry, 6-foot Newburgh junior, into the starting role.

The unbeaten Buffalo squad (6-0 in the SUNYAC) galloped to a 38-27 halftime lead but New Paltz rallied to tie the score three times in the second half at 49-49, 51-51 and 53-53.

Last Four Minutes

The issue was settled in the last four minutes when 6-foot-5 Charlie Davis, who blitzed SUNYAC early in the game than sat on the bench because of fouls, came back in the last 4 minutes to pump two straight baskets on a tapin and jump shot to put Buffalo ahead 57-53.

New Paltz had forged ahead 49-47 with 8:41 remaining on Peter Kane's deuce off Larry McGoldrick's rebound. John Noworyta, fouled by McGoldrick, converted two crucial free throws and bucketed a basket to put Buffalo ahead 53-51. John Flyzik tied it at 53-53 before Davis came back on the scene.

The turning point may have been McGoldrick's failure to cash in on either of two free throws with 2:34 left. Buffalo protected its 6-point lead the rest of the way.

Open With 5-0

Buffalo opened the game with a 5-0 spurt against New Paltz's man to man defense, then ran it to 11-4, with Davis hitting "3 for 3". Coach Sheppard called time, made some changes in his defense and the Hawks put the throttle on Davis' jumpers from 15 to 20 feet out.

Ed Shuster, who is now the Hawks' No. 1 man, turned in a solid performance with 14 points. Scoring honors went to Peter Kane with 17 points, while John Flyzik, the all round whiz, potted 13. Coach Meehan was also pleased with the rebounding job done by sophomore Larry McGoldrick.

The New Paltz defense sharply reduced Buffalo's 90-plus SUNYAC scoring average. Davis and Bortsch led the invaders with 12 points each. Meanwhile, Oswego State re-

Coach Wes Kissel's Indians practically finished Marlboro Central hopes by edging the Dukes, 68-63, for a crucial win at Marlboro. Coach Chick Meehan's Rondout Ganders breezed to an easy 63-36 home court win over hapless Walkill.

Four crucial free throws by Onteora in the last 25 seconds decided the thrilling contest at Marlboro. The Dukes lost the ball and Onteora brought it downcourt. John Selcin was fouled and converted. Roy McAteer fouled Dale Chauncey, who added two more free throws. Marsh got a foul for the home side by Selcin, was fouled and again converted to put the game out of reach, 68-63.

ace said the pressure of student teaching and basketball was too much and he had decided to concentrate on teaching.

With Sands gone, Coach Sheppard moved Jeffrey Berry, 6-foot Newburgh junior, into the starting role.

The unbeaten Buffalo squad (6-0 in the SUNYAC) galloped to a 38-27 halftime lead but New Paltz rallied to tie the score three times in the second half at 49-49, 51-51 and 53-53.

Last Four Minutes

The issue was settled in the last four minutes when 6-foot-5 Charlie Davis, who blitzed SUNYAC early in the game than sat on the bench because of fouls, came back in the last 4 minutes to pump two straight baskets on a tapin and jump shot to put Buffalo ahead 57-53.

New Paltz had forged ahead 49-47 with 8:41 remaining on Peter Kane's deuce off Larry McGoldrick's rebound. John Noworyta, fouled by McGoldrick, converted two crucial free throws and bucketed a basket to put Buffalo ahead 53-51. John Flyzik tied it at 53-53 before Davis came back on the scene.

The turning point may have been McGoldrick's failure to cash in on either of two free throws with 2:34 left. Buffalo protected its 6-point lead the rest of the way.

Open With 5-0

Buffalo opened the game with a 5-0 spurt against New Paltz's man to man defense, then ran it to 11-4, with Davis hitting "3 for 3". Coach Sheppard called time, made some changes in his defense and the Hawks put the throttle on Davis' jumpers from 15 to 20 feet out.

Ed Shuster, who is now the Hawks' No. 1 man, turned in a solid performance with 14 points. Scoring honors went to Peter Kane with 17 points, while John Flyzik, the all round whiz, potted 13. Coach Meehan was also pleased with the rebounding job done by sophomore Larry McGoldrick.

The New Paltz defense sharply reduced Buffalo's 90-plus SUNYAC scoring average. Davis and Bortsch led the invaders with 12 points each. Meanwhile, Oswego State re-

NEW PALTZ — Coach Doug Sheppard's State University Hawks, stunned by the news that high scoring Ty Sands would be lost for the remainder of the season, tried harder Friday night and forced high powered Buffalo State to the limit before yielding a 66-60 decision.

Sands, former Monticello High star who was leading the Hawks with a 25-plus average, announced his retirement just before game time. The senior ace said the pressure of student teaching and basketball was too much and he had decided to concentrate on teaching.

With Sands gone, Coach Sheppard moved Jeffrey Berry, 6-foot Newburgh junior, into the starting role.

The unbeaten Buffalo squad (6-0 in the SUNYAC) galloped to a 38-27 halftime lead but New Paltz rallied to tie the score three times in the second half at 49-49, 51-51 and 53-53.

The New Paltz defense sharply reduced Buffalo's 90-100 scoring average, plus SUNYAC scoring average. Davis and Bortschel led the invaders with 12 points each. Meanwhile, Oswego State retained a technical tie with Buffalo for the SUNYAC lead, defeating Plattsburgh 81-72, for its fourth straight win.

The Hawks are scheduled at Yeshiva University tonight.

Sagarese Explains
Coach Ed Sagarese of Marlboro said the game went the way he had planned, except for the final outcome. He planned to hold Mike Patrick and Mickey Bush, the Indians' big guns, in check with a tight man to man defense. It worked beautifully as McAtee held Bush to four field goals and Pagano limited Patrick to the same total.

The Dukes outscored the Onteora squad 58-32 but failed to capitalize on the departure of both Bush and Patrick on fouls late in the game.

Wallkill galloped to a 2-1 lead over Rondout on a basket by Pete Riggins and then the roof fell in. The Ganders proceeded to reel off 18 straight points for a 19-2 lead and everything was anticlimactic after that. Gordie Taylor scored 7 points and Frank Sams three in the spurt.

continued being the decoy, and this time Bill Atkins shook loose, connecting for 12 as Arlington duplicated the second quarter mastery.

McCallish wound up with seven, but did not leave the game as Beacon put on the heat with the full court press in the fourth period. The press, combined with a blistering fast break brought the Bulldogs to within three, 39-36, with 10 seconds showing on the clock.

Alley in Clutch
Alley, demonstrating clutch shooting, converted both ends of a one-and-one to ice it for the front running Admirals.

Poughkeepsie, ahead by four heading into the second quarter, dropped to one-down, 21-20 at halftime as the Lourdes "wheeling offense" slowed things down considerably.

The Warriors upped the margin by three, making it 32-28 going into the final stanza, but the stall backfired and Pokip outscored the Warriors, 7-3 to knot it.

The game was tied at 34-all with 1:44 left, but Lourdes was content to sit on the ball. A foul on Pokip's Rudy Jones with 27 seconds left could have given the Pioneers the lead, but Jones missed.

The Warriors' Mike Gorman fouled Jones again, and this time Jones connected, making it 35-34, but with one second left, a missed foul by Poughkeepsie's Terry Bower brought Coach Bill Marr off the bench and it cost him dearly.

He was slapped with a technical and Dave Jansen displaying "iron nerve" sank the shot to send the game into overtime.

Frank Barry hit on a baseline drive to send Lourdes out in front by two, but Joe Johnson hit a foul to make it only a one-point lead. Gorman converted another foul and it was all over for Poughkeepsie's hopes of winning.

In the other game, Wappingers blasted winless Farley off the court as five Fallsmen hit for double figures. Ed Bonnett hit 12, Charlie McKinley 13, Bruce Garrett 10 and Dave Pruitt and Bob Rush tossed in 14 apiece for the winners.

High for the losers was Leo Halleran with 17 and Jim McCarthy chipped in 12.

In jayvee action, Beacon, with Nate Williams hitting 16, nosed out Arlington, 57-36, despite Jim Nemes' 18 for Arlington. Poughkeepsie swarmed over Lourdes, 62-36 and Farley downed Wappingers, 57-47 behind Al Bekhart's 21. Bob Foster had 12 for the losers.

The Ellies' scoring ace racked up 26 points, hauled in 33 rebounds and chalked up five assists before he retired to the bench early in the fourth quarter.

Three other players hit in double figures as Ellenville took a 18-9 quarter lead and 45-21 halftime bulge.

Bob Blossom did an excellent job as the man-to-man defender on Charlie Levine of Fallsburgh, limiting the 20-point star to a pair of free throws.

The rest of the Ellies were in a 2-2 zone. Williams led Fallsburgh with 14. Jan Karow had nine assists for the winners.

Wilt Adds New Record to List
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain has etched his magical name into the record books again. But the chances are you'd never guess for what. It's for assists, not points, this time.

Chamberlain, the record-cracking scoring giant of the Philadelphia 76ers, has switched more to playmaking in his later, vintage years. And he handed out 21 assists—a club record—in pacing the 76ers to a 131-121 National Basketball Association victory over Detroit Friday night.

The mark also was a high for the NBA this year. The all-time mark is jointly held by Bob Cousy and Guy Rodgers, each with 28.

In other NBA action, Boston drubbed Baltimore 120-99; Los Angeles smothered Seattle 151-133; Cincinnati topped Chicago 125-113 and San Francisco downed San Diego 127-121.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, who once scored 100 points in a game against the New York Knickerbockers, was no slacker in the other individual departments. He scored 22 points and grabbed 25 rebounds.

Hall Greer helped balance the 76ers' attack with 23 points—for a lifetime total of 14,518, tying Richie Guerin for 10th place on the all-time NBA scoring list.

Eddie Miles led Detroit with 34 points and Dave Bing added 30.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky blasted Minnesota 120-84; Pittsburgh downed Dallas 122-105; Indiana beat New Jersey 113-103 and New Orleans trimmed Anaheim 128-101.

Pee Wees Win
Ron Jordan scored 10 points as St. Joseph's Pee Wees defeated St. Mary's of Hudson, 33-13, in a non-league game. Tim Engel had 7 points. Marsh led Hudson with 5.

Roosevelt Central Rips Sawyers, 83-47

Roosevelt Central topped the first half, Bob O'Connor last night, defeating the Sawyers 83-47 in a DCSL contest at Roosevelt.

The Presidents (now 4-5 in the league) scored 49 points in the second and their tight 3-2 zone completely blanketed Sawyers, now 1-9.

Roosevelt's scoring ace—Greg Palm Springs, Calif. (AP) — That man of golf, Arnold Palmer, was back knocking on the door Saturday in quest of his third victory in the $122,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Arnie moved out of the fringes of the early round leaders in the third round Friday and went into today's fourth round of the 90-hole marathon tied with young Tom Weiskopf at 209.

The 209 is seven strokes under par for the distance in an event which winds up Sunday. It was to be nationally televised (NBC) 4:30-7 p.m. EST.

Arnie shot a 67, five under par, Friday, the lowest round he's had in the new year. He won the Hope charity-raising tournament in 1960 and again in 1962.

Weiskopf, 26, from Marco Island, Fla., stroked a 68 to gain a position he held alone in the 1967 Hope affair.

Play is over four par 36-36-72 country club courses: Indian Wells—where both Palmer and Weiskopf played Friday—Eldorado, La Quinta and Bermuda Dunes.

Four professionals were tied at 210, one stroke behind the leaders—Bob McCallister, with a third round 68; Gay Brewer and Charles Coody, with 69s, and Bruce Devlin of Australia, with 72.

Dorpien Hotel Closes Doors

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — The last guests checked out of the Hotel Van Curler today in the wake of a management decision to close the city's largest and oldest hotel because of financial losses over the past several years.

Donald L. Millham, president of the Schenectady Hotel Co., announced Friday that a voluntary petition of bankruptcy would be filed next week with a federal court in Utica. Millham said the 43-year-old hotel "has been losing money for the past several years." Operating losses in 1966-67, he added, "were so great as to practically eliminate its operating capital."

The six-story hotel was built in the downtown section in 1925 at a cost of $1.1 million. About two-thirds of its 248 rooms were obsolete, however, Millham said, seven conventions were scheduled at the hotel this year.

Heart Man Recovery Very Slow

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Medical sources said today that heart transplant patient Philip Blaiberg was not recuperating as speedily as earlier believed, although he continues to improve. His release from Groote Schuur Hospital has been delayed indefinitely.

Blaiberg, the world's only survivor of a heart graft, was described by his wife as feeling fine today, 31 days after his operation.

A hospital spokesman said no decision on sending Blaiberg home would be made until his surgeon, Dr. Christiaan Barnard, arrives back in Cape Town Monday from a tour of Europe.

Sending the 58-year-old retired dentist home would involve a transfer from the hospital to normal conditions outside, posing the possibility of a difficult acclimatization period.

Justice Enters Innocent Plea To Bribe Charge

RIVERHEAD, L. I. (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice James A. Roe Jr. has pleaded innocent to an indictment charging he tried to bribe two policemen to avoid a speeding ticket.

Roe, who sits in Queens, pleaded Friday to two felony charges handed up by a Suffolk County grand jury accusing him of "bribing certain public officers."

Roe, 45, was released on his own recognizance. No hearing date was set.

As he left the courthouse with his attorneys, Roe told newsmen, "I'll have something to say at the right time."

Roe has a summer home on Shelter Island. Last Aug. 24, according to Patrolman George Bladoff and Constable George Zabel, they stopped Roe for driving 50 miles an hour in a 40-m.p.h. zone on Shelter Island.

Bladoff and Zabel testified that Roe offered them $10 bribes to forget the ticket, and they refused.

Roe later pleaded guilty to the speeding charge in Justice of the Peace Court, Shelter Island, and paid a fine of $15.

If convicted of the attempted bribery charge, Roe could get a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Roe is the son of the late James A. Roe Sr., a former Democratic leader in Queens. Roe resides at 160-06 35th Ave. n.e.

Syracuse Grid Star's Sister Is Stabbed

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Nancy Csonka, sister of Syracuse University football star Larry Csonka, was in serious condition in Children's Hospital today with stab wounds suffered at the Csonka home in nearby Stow.

Police said 13-year-old Robert Csonka, was held in the Summit County detention home in the knife. The girl's father, Joseph Csonka, said Robert, a brother's stepchild, had lived at their home since last November.

The wounded girl's father said she told him she returned home early Friday afternoon from high school, where she is a senior, because she felt ill. Her father quoted her as saying that she was in the kitchen drinking a bottle of pop and had not argued with Robert but that he suddenly took a butcher knife from a wall rack and plunged it into her stomach.

She was able to move to a telephone and call her sister in nearby Kent. When an ambulance and police arrived, the boy was still at the house.

Miss Csonka was in surgery for six hours last night. Her pancreas and a kidney were damaged by the stabbing.

Larry Csonka, in New York Friday for a speaking engagement, returned home.

Dorplan Hotel Closes Doors

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — The last guests checked out of the Hotel Van Curler today in the wake of a management decision to close the city's largest and oldest hotel because of financial losses over the past several years.

Donald L. Millham, president of the Schenectady Hotel Co., announced Friday that a voluntary petition of bankruptcy would be filed next week with a federal court in Utica.

Millham said the 43-year-old hotel "has been losing money for the past several years." Operating losses in 1966-67, he added, "were so great as to practically eliminate its operating capital."

WILL REMARRY—Mrs. Roger Chafee, whose husband was killed in last year's Apollo disaster, said she plans to remarry soon. She said she will marry Bill Canfield, a Houston mad developer she has known since last spring. Mrs. Chafee, 30, has two children, Sheryl, 9, and Stephen, 6. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Justice Enters Innocent Plea To Bribe Charge

RIVERHEAD, L. I. (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice James A. Roe Jr. has pleaded innocent to an indictment charging he tried to bribe two policemen to avoid a speeding ticket.

Roe, who sits in Queens, pleaded Friday to two felony charges handed up by a Suffolk County grand jury accusing him of "bribing certain public officers."

Roe, 45, was released on his own recognizance. No hearing date was set.

As he left the courthouse with his attorneys, Roe told newsmen, "I'll have something to say at the right time."

Roe has a summer home on Shelter Island. Last Aug. 24, according to Patrolman George Bladoff and Constable George Zabel, they stopped Roe for driving 50 miles an hour in a 40-m.p.h. zone on Shelter Island.

Bladoff and Zabel testified that Roe offered them $10 bribes to forget the ticket, and they refused.

Roe later pleaded guilty to the speeding charge in Justice of the Peace Court, Shelter Island, and paid a fine of $15.

He is the son of the late James A. Roe Sr., a former Democratic leader in Queens. Roe resides at 160-06 35th Ave. Nue.

Syracuse Grid Star's Sister Is Stabbed

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Nancy Csonka, sister of Syracuse University football star Larry Csonka, was in serious condition in Children's Hospital today with stab wounds suffered at the Csonka home in nearby Slow.

Police said 13-year-old Robert Csonka, was held in the Summit County detention home in the knife. The girl's father, Joseph Csonka, said Robert, a brother's stepchild, had lived at their home since last November.

The wounded girl's father said she told him she returned home early Friday afternoon from high school, where she is a senior, because she felt ill. Her father quoted her as saying that she was in the kitchen drinking a bottle of pop and had not argued with Robert but that he suddenly took a butcher knife from a wall rack and plunged it into her stomach.

She was able to move to a telephone and call her sister in nearby Kent. When an ambulance and police arrived, the boy was still at the house.

Miss Csonka was in surgery for six hours last night. Her pancreas and a kidney were damaged by the stabbing.

Larry Csonka, in New York Friday for a speaking engagement, returned home.

Auto Kills Girl

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Miss Joan Connolly, 25, was killed early today when struck by an automobile while crossing a street near her home, police reported.

She lived at 115 Clinton Ave.

Heart Man Recovery Very Slow

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Medical sources said today that heart transplant patient Philip Blaiberg was not recovering as speedily as earlier believed, although he continues to improve. His release from Grootte Schuur Hospital has been delayed indefinitely.

Blaiberg, the world's only survivor of a heart graft, was described by his wife as feeling fine today, 31 days after his operation.

A hospital spokesman said no decision on sending Blaiberg home would be made until his surgeon, Dr. Christiaan Barnard, arrives back in Cape Town Monday from a tour of Europe.

Sending the 58-year-old retired dentist home would involve a transfer from the atmosphere of his sterilized hospital room to normal conditions outside, posing the possibility of a difficult acclimatization period.

The funds have been granted through the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The specific amount for each area will be determined by the state.

The funds will be used for a two-year planning program for growth and development.

Dear Abby

Daughter Needs Discipline

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a 13-year-old daughter who is the most selfish, inconsiderate girl in the world? For example, when "The Princess" takes a bath, she thinks she has to have the water up to her neck. There are eight of us in this family, Abby, and she doesn't care if there is no hot water left for anybody else or not.

I wish you would put this in your column as "The Princess" never misses it. She won't listen to me.

BOSTON MOM
DEAR MOM: If "The Princess," at age 13, won't listen to you, you'd better prepare yourself for some royal headaches. Consideration for others is the Number One virtue in this life, and if your daughter doesn't learn it fast she will probably always be in hot water up to her neck.

DEAR ABBY: What is a sure cure for a selfish man? I am married to one. He is 23 and I am 22, and he expects me to wait on him hand and foot. The other night, for example, he said, "Hey, get me my cigarettes and a pillow, will you?" I told him I wasn't his slave, and he got mad.

I work eight hours a day in a laundry and at the end of the day I'm just as tired as he is. He likes to watch television while he's eating, so he eats on a tray. I don't mind that, but when he's finished I have to take the tray back to the kitchen. Sometimes he acts like he's the king and I am his servant.

I really love him, and don't want any trouble, but how can I make him quit being so selfish? He does other selfish things but it would take a book to tell you. Thanks for any help you can give me.

NO SLAVE
DEAR NO SLAVE: For a young married couple, ages 23 and 22, the honeymoon appears to have come to a premature end. I don't know your definition of "love," but it certainly isn't sharing, caring, and a desire to please your man. I suspect your marriage is filled with other minor irritations. Why don't you two sit down and find out what happened to all that "love" you married for? With a little luck and understanding you may be able to recapture it before it's too late.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks to you, I have fallen in love with a soldier in Viet Nam.

I wrote to Sgt. Jefferson, who gave me a letter to a "Joneses soldier" named Neil, and we have been writing daily.

Neil said that since my first letter to him he felt that he had something to come home for. He is now in the states in a hospital, so we couldn't keep our date to meet on Christmas day but I plan to fly out to Hamilton Air Force Base and surprise him.

I have never seen him, Abby, but I care deeply for him. I couldn't care less if he is short or tall, or fat or thin, or if he has two heads and three eyes. If he will have me, I will be his for the rest of my life. Thank you, Dear Abby, for bringing us together.

(A GRATEFUL NURSE)
DEAR PAT: And thank you for your wonderful letter. I hope you will keep me informed of further progress.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHRIS: You feed your face three times a day whether you're hungry or not, so why not toss your soul a bone and go to church once a week?

The alert declarer should go back to the bidding and decide that the odds are that East will hold every missing high card. He will remember that East bid one and three hearts while West kept passing and that East was vulnerable.

In that case, there is a simple but elegant solution to the problem of making the contract. South can end play East.

Usually an end play is associated with the last few tricks of a hand. This end play took place at trick three. South led out his nine of hearts. East was on lead and was end played with ten cards in his hand. A heart lead would allow South to discard one of his losers and ruff in dummy. A diamond lead would give away his diamond trick.

The only lead left to want trumps to break. In duplicate play a bad trump break tends to separate the men from the boys.

South wins the heart lead with his ace and lays down the king of trumps for the start of what should be a routine operation in dummy play. But East shows out and South must take a new look at the hand.

Robertson Take Chance Guy

By HAL BOYLE
 NEW YORK (AP) — Cliff Robertson is a take a chance actor and most successful performers in television, he felt that in none of his 13 movies he had been given a really great role.

Pretty Suffocating
 "Some of them were pretty suffocating," he said. "So since the mountain wouldn't come to me, I decided to go to the mountain."
 Five years ago he bought the film rights to a short story called "Flowers for Algernon" by Daniel Keyes. It is the touching story of a young bakery worker who aspires to lead a normal life but is handicapped by the fact he has an intelligence quotient of only 59.

Retitled "Charly"—that's how the retarded boy spells his name—the film will be released by ABC-Paramount in a few months.
 "I've had this story in my guts for five long years," said Cliff, who worked on the writing of the screen play and also beat on Hollywood's golden doors until he found a financial sponsor.

"I may not make a nickel out of it, but I'll at least have the satisfaction of having done it. I didn't want to be the kind of a guy who 20 years from now would be sitting around saying to himself, 'If only I—'"
 Actually, Robertson is probably overcritical of his own work in films. His screen credits include "Picnic," "PT-109," "The Best Man," and "The Honey Pot."

But he did get a little vexed at board.

Man contains within himself many pent-up characteristics and moods—drunkenness brings them forth and exposes them to full view.
 Mrs. Diggs—Can you imagine, my dear! Just as the bride was coming down the aisle to the altar, he turned and ran out and left town.
 Mrs. Briggs—Lost his nerve? Mrs. Diggs—No—found it.
 Once you get your name on the marriage license, your wife and your children yet unborn have a first and second mortgage on you.
 Miss Elder—I will bet you anything you like that I will never marry.
 Mr. Easy—I'll take you.
 Miss Elder (rapturously)—Will you, really? Then I need not bet at all.

In a New England jail, two prisoners pried brick out of the prison wall, walked a few blocks, broke into a store, stole $400 and cigarettes, re-entered the prison and tidily replaced the bricks.
 Cal—It has been proved that opposites attract each other.
 Hal—Give us an example.
 Cal—Tight men and loose women.

Fog, Rain Blamed for Accidents

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Dense fog and rain combined to cause confusion among motorists on the Thruway Friday night, when a chain-reaction accident injured one motorist and snarled northbound traffic near mile post 94 about three miles north of Kingston interchange.

The accident was one of a series of traffic mishaps investigated by area authorities, some resulting in personal injury. The pile-up of cars on the superhighway occurred at 8:40 p. m. according to Trooper J. B. Fox, who reported one driver, Joseph Trepel of Woodmere, L. I., was charged with changing lanes unsafely.

Trepel, troopers said was driving north when he came upon a slow moving truck. He swerved to the other lane to avoid hitting the back of the truck, and his car was in collision with a northbound vehicle driven by John McMahon of Loudonville.

The other cars, all traveling north, then became involved in the chain-reaction mishap and all vehicles were damaged. The drivers were identified in a report of the investigating officer, Trooper Robert Reilly as James Pheasant of the Bronx, John Schmidt of Middle Village, Joseph Bernocco Jr., of Kearny, N. J., Miroslav Runkat of Park Ridge, N. J., and the seventh car was owned by the Dye Oil Co. of Gloversville. The driver was not identified.

Treated at Hospital Schmidt was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's

Ambulance after he complained of back pains. He was treated and released, troopers said.

A Rhinebeck man was injured and two cars were extensively damaged in a freak accident which occurred at 12:25 a. m. today and caused a power failure after a utility pole supporting a transformer was knocked down off Route 9G north of Whaleback Road, Town of Red Hook.

State Police Sergeant William Urey of the Rhinebeck substation said David Hess of Route 9G, Red Hook, was driving north when his car skidded out of control on wet pavement and smashed into a utility pole, knocking it down.

The pole and transformer fell on another northbound vehicle driven by Richard Matthies of Chestnut Street, Rhinebeck, whose car continued on and slammed into the Hess sedan. Matthies was taken to Northern Dutchess Hospital and treated for multiple lacerations of the face and hands. A power failure resulted from the mishap and Central Hudson Gas & Electric crews were called out to replace the pole.

Stone Ridge Accident A two-vehicle collision on Route 209 in Stone Ridge yesterday was investigated by State Trooper A. J. Scarselli of Kingston, who reported no injuries. Frank Blasko, of Bath, Pa., was driving a tractor-trailer north on the highway and attempting to pass a car operated by Daniel Holleran, 25, of 31 Streit Avenue, Poughkeepsie, when Blasko saw a school bus which he thought was stopping.

The truck driver applied the brakes and the vehicle skidded and was in collision with Holleran's car. No injuries were reported.

Bernard Benedict, 29, of Pine Grove School, Saugerties, escaped injury Friday when the car he was driving in a westerly direction went out of control and hit guard rails off Glasco Turnpike, Town of Saugerties. Trooper Robert Mackey cited Benedict for driving without a license. The summons is returnable later before Saugerties Town Justice Calvin Cody.

Deputy sheriffs investigated a traffic accident near Mt. Tremper after 6 a. m. today. Incomplete reports listed the operator of the car as William Mooze of 106 West Street, Rock Hill, Conn. He was injured and taken to Benedictine Hospital. No further details were available.

They quoted Mrs. Williams' mother, Mrs. Louise Debold of Buffalo, as saying the couple argued over whether a brother-in-law of Williams should be admitted to the home.

The man and wife fought, and Mrs. Williams ran from the house, followed by her husband, who collapsed and died in the front yard, investigators added.

A 10-inch butcher knife was found in the living room of the home, which was spattered with blood, police said.

The home is at 454 Emslie St. Mrs. Debold's address is 25 Davis St.

County Family Farms Receive $209,160 Help

A total of $209,160 in loan funds has been used in Ulster County to support family farms since the Farmers Home Administration program was expanded to include opening an office in Kingston two years ago, Charles Locke, local supervisor for the rural credit agency said today.

Approximately $99,410 was advanced in 1967.

Currently 19 farmers in Ulster County are using the supervised credit services of the Farmers Home Administration.

The supply of Farmers Home Administration credit, which supplements the credit supplied by banks and other private credit sources is one of the measures recommended by President Johnson to provide family farmers an opportunity to earn parity of income.

These loans have enabled farmers to stay in business. They have helped young farm-

School Board Approves Guide for Family Life

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

A curriculum guide in family life—sex education for grades K-6, which was developed by a committee of the professional staff of the Kingston School District Consolidated, has been approved by resolution of the Board of Education.

The curriculum guide will be implemented in the schools of the district effective on Sept. 1. The board by necessity has initiated a health service contract for payment of health services for seven students residing in the Kingston school district, who attend non-public schools in Central School District 1, Towns of Catskill and Athens in Greene County. The board agrees to pay $14.55 for health services for each of the students at a total cost of $101.85.

Tenure for Seven

On recommendation of Superintendent of Schools W. Wendell Hoover, the board has approved tenure for seven teachers. They are—Mrs. Shirley Adin, elementary; Ronald F. Gabriele, special physical education; Miss Edith Lang, special speech; Mrs. Ezella Marable, special class; Glenn Spiegel, junior high vice principal; Miss Athens Trataros, secondary; John S. Zambito, junior high.

Refunds for school tax overpayments on properties owned by Treinkal Realty Corp., in the amount of $2,419.45, and Katherine B. Ruzzo for $429.82, have been approved by the Board after orders were signed by Supreme Court Justice John T. Casey.

In order to have the M. Clifford Miller Junior High School library ready for opening in September, the central administration has been authorized by the board to employ the librarian effective July 1.

Clifford E. Shultis, of the J. Watson Bailey School, has been granted an indeterminate military leave of absence effective Jan. 29, and salary for a period of 30 work days. He recently was called for active duty in the U. S. Marine Corps under Presidential order.

Professional Appointments

Professional appointments approved by the board on recommendation of Dr. Hoover include—Joseph Alexiechik, biology teacher (KHS); Mrs. Cecilia Edenholm and Mrs. Jo Anne Turk, elementary; and Mrs. Theresa DeWitt, substitute teacher at Lake Katrine School.

The salary of William J. Smurli has been increased in accordance with his new step 5 A-1-d, effective Sept. 1. He had submitted evidence of having satisfactorily completed indicated graduate work.

The resignation of Mary B. Brown has been accepted. Miss Mary E. Polhemus, retired principal of Sophie G. Finn School, and Miss Laura May Stanley, a retired teacher, are eligible for employment as substitute teachers, when needed, as the result of action by the board.

Six clerical employees, certified as clerk-typists and stenographers by the Municipal Civil Service, have been placed on probationary status. They are Miss Kathleen Alagna, Mrs. Margaret O'Neil and Miss Patricia Winpen, clerk-typists, and Mrs. Anna Fay, Miss Patricia LaBarr and Miss Germaine Litus, stenographers.

Changes in status and salary for four cleaners from hourly rate to contract salary, have been approved for John H. Barley, Edson School; Arthur Champion, Hurley School; Francis T. Murphy, JWB, and Raymond J. Slater, Kingston High School. The status of Gloria M. Deyo has been changed from food service helper to clerk-typist. She is assigned to the Bailey School cafeteria.

14 Drivers Added

Fourteen bus drivers have been added to the list of approved drivers for the 1967-68 school year. They are: Frank Fuscardo, Vincent Provenzano, Curtis Vandemark and Michael Perry, of Chapple's Taxi; Donald Partridge, a Gennaro Auto-employee; Cornelius Hassett, Ernest Keater, Art Gurner, Kenneth Shupe, Dan Elkins, Richard Driesler, Lucille Wnuk and William Russell, of Arthur Mulligan's, and John Walker, Lipton's Bee Line.

Because it was necessary to issue transportation contracts for handicapped children, transfer of funds from instruction to transportation accounts have been approved in the amounts of $218 for Lucy Perry, doing business as Chapple's, and $552 for Ethan Allen, a total of $770. There were insufficient funds in the transportation budget to cover the contracts.

Predict Long Strike Of Sanitation Men

NEW YORK (AP) — City officials and union leaders have expressed pessimism about a quick settlement in the day-long strike by the city's 10,000 uniformed sanitationmen.

"Things have got to simmer a little," said one official of the Uniformed Sanitation Men's Association after a tumultuous City Hall Park rally Friday at which 7,000 workers shouted approval of a motion to "go, go, go!"

The city's corporation counsel went into State Supreme Court and obtained a temporary restraining order under provision of the Taylor Act, enjoining the union from any strike, slowdown or stoppage.

A hearing was set for Monday at which the union officials must show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued. The Taylor Act prohibits strikes by public employees.

Despite the no-strike order, the walkout continued Friday night. A Sanitation Department spokesman said no member of the union showed up for the afternoon shift at any of the garages in the five boroughs.

At the rally, the men hooted down Union President John J. DeLury's plea for a strike vote by mail. Then he met with Mayor John V. Lindsay and returned to tell the crowd he had submitted new demands including a $600 pay increase.

The city rejected the new proposal, and DeLury, reporting to the crowd declared, "No contract, no work." In the aftermath, pickets were assigned to the sanitation garages throughout the city.

The Mayor's Emergency Control Board met in the afternoon to discuss health and safety measures to be taken in the event of a protracted strike.

Later it was announced that arrangements were being made with the union to remove "highly putrescent garbage" from municipal hospitals, nursing homes and other municipal emergency facilities.

Householders were urged to compact refuse by crushing items such as milk containers and cartons and to separate out paper, rags and cardboard to leave space for "potentially unpleasant substances" in receptacles.

In 1951, sanitationmen staged a slowdown, and many called in sick during a 17-day drive for a shorter work week. There was no serious pile-up of trash however.

A moderate slowdown occurred earlier this week when they began to increase pressure in the negotiations. The old contract expired June 30.

A mediation panel has recommended an increase of $400 a year in the present sanitation wages that range from $6,424 to $7,965 annually after three years.

90 Day Sentence

A 62-year-old Ellenville man was picked up by Ellenville village police Friday and charged with criminal trespassing after he was found in the basement of a department store.

James Sechrist was arrested at 5 p. m. Friday by village police officers Charles Freer and Tyrone Franklin after he had been discovered in the basement of Rothkopf's Department Store on the corner of Market and Center Streets.

He was charged with criminal trespassing, second degree. Sechrist appeared before village police justice Ronald Elias and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Judge Elias sentenced Sechrist to 90 days in the Ulster County jail.

Seeks to Halt Sale of Weight Reducing Pills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is moving to halt the sale of the thyroid-digitalis pills that thousands of Americans use to take off excess weight.

Dr. James L. Goddard, commissioner of the FDA, announced the action Friday at a hearing of the Senate antitrust subcommittee and immediately was criticized by the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., for not having done so long ago.

The FDA showed "lousy judgment" in its reluctance to act, especially since there have been indications for years that thyroid-digitalis pills can be harmful, even fatal, Hart said.

"I think it is a skeleton in your closet," he said.

Goddard, who has headed the FDA only since January 1966, defended the agency's conduct by saying that early evidence against the pills—some dating back to the 1940s—was not conclusive enough to justify having them taken off the market.

But the FDA feels it "now has sufficient evidence to prove that these drugs constitute a danger to health," he said.

Goddard said there are no major drug firms among the approximately 25 companies that manufacture thyroid-digitalis preparations. Seizure actions have been carried out against three companies and more are planned, he said.

'New' Nixon Starts Campaign Trail

By RELMAN MORIN
CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is beginning his second drive for the presidency with a balanced blend of argument, criticism of the Johnson administration and laughing at himself.

Judging by his initial performances, he does indeed look like a New Nixon.

The former vice president is less strident and more relaxed. Nixon today is in his second day of campaigning for the March 12 New Hampshire primary, the nation's first. He is focusing in his statements, formal and informal, on the future.

He opened his campaign with a news conference Friday.

Nixon today attends a number of small "town meetings," gathering with small groups in and near New Hampshire simply to ask questions.

Slates Reception
With his wife and two daughters, he scheduled a reception at St. Anselm's Academy with a major speech at a dinner meeting in Concord tonight.

The polls of Republican voters in the Granite State have been showing Nixon with a 3-1 lead over Gov. George Romney of Michigan, the only other announced major GOP presidential candidate. However, Nixon's aides discount these figures. "It is a close, tough fight," one of them said.

They feel that the decision in New Hampshire will strongly affect the results of the Wisconsin primary, scheduled April 2, the second in which Nixon will contend.

Nixon won with 53.4 per cent of the votes over John F. Kennedy in the New Hampshire presidential election in 1960. He also won Wisconsin by a margin of 42,000 votes.

Nixon opened his Friday news conference by saying, "This is not my last press conference."

This was a reference to 1962 when, after he lost in the California gubernatorial campaign, he appeared on television, was critical of news coverage of his campaign and angrily said, "This is my last press conference."

He laughed at himself again when he said, "I will try to use television in spite of my past track record on that score." He apparently was referring to his televised debates in the 1960 campaign against Kennedy.

In another instance, when a reporter asked whether Nixon could bring "statesmanship" to the problems confronting the United States, Nixon replied, "Let the record show that you used the word 'statesmanship,' not I."

Nixon is attacking his "loser image" head on. His line of reasoning goes like this: that no one is more concerned with seeing a Republican elected president in November than he. He said that he did not enter the New Hampshire primary "lightly," that he entered only because he believes that he can win in New Hampshire, five other primaries, and the election next November. He said that he felt certain he could defeat President Johnson and emphasized that he would not have made the attempt otherwise.

Nixon criticized the Johnson administration on the capture of the American communications ship, Pueblo.

County Family Farms Receive $209,160 Help

A total of $209,160 in loan funds has been used in Ulster County to support family farms since the Farmers Home Administration program was expanded to include opening an office in Kingston two years ago, Charles Locke, local supervisor for the rural credit agency said today.

Approximately $99,410 was advanced in 1967.

Currently 19 farmers in Ulster County are using the supervised credit services of the Farmers Home Administration.

The supply of Farmers Home Administration credit, which supplements the credit supplied by banks and other private credit sources is one of the measures recommended by President Johnson to provide family farmers an opportunity to earn parity of income.

"These loans have enabled farmers to stay in business. They have helped young farmers get established. They have enabled farmers to keep going after the extended drought reduced the quantity and quality of farm crops produced," Locke noted.

Farmers Home Administration loans can be used to buy land, refinance debts, acquire livestock and equipment, pay fertilizer and fuel bills and pay other expenses connected with acquiring, improving and operating farms.

The incomes of farmers using Farmers Home Administration credit in Ulster County in 1967 totaled approximately $390,000.

Loans are made only to families who are unable to obtain adequate credit from other sources. The program is tailored to individual family needs and loans are accompanied by technical assistance in farm and money management.

The Ulster County Office is located at 243 Fair Street.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. Sunday.
Tonight rain will occur over the Northern half of the Pacific Coast States, while snow and snow flurries are expected in the extreme Northern Rockies. Fair to partly cloudy skies will prevail over the remainder of the nation. Colder weather is forecast for most of the Plateau region and the Northeast, with somewhat milder temperatures anticipated elsewhere. Minimum temperature forecasts include: Atlanta 35; Boston 20; Chicago 28; Cleveland 14; Denver 20; Duluth 22; Ft. Worth 35; Jacksonville 42; Little Rock 36; Los Angeles 52; Miami 55; New York 27; Phoenix 46; San Francisco 45; Seattle 42; St. Louis 34; and Washington 30.

HIGHLAND BLAZE—Origin of a 3-alarm fire which destroyed this 4-story business-apartment building on Main St., Highland, Friday, is under investigation, according to Fire Chief Fred Visconti. Luckily no one was in the apartments above the two stores when the fire erupted. Six families residing in apartments next door were awakened by an alert fireman who assisted them in evacuating their homes without incident. Poughkeepsie, Marlboro and Milton fire units assisted. School Board Approves Guide for Family Life

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

A curriculum guide in family life—sex education for grades K-6, which was developed by a committee of the professional staff of the Kingston School District Consolidated, has been approved by resolution of the Board of Education.

The curriculum guide will be implemented in the schools of the district effective on Sept. 1.

The board by necessity has initiated a health service contract for a number of health services for seven students residing in the Kingston school district, who attend non-public schools in Central School District 1, Towns of Catskill and Athens in Greene County. The board agrees to pay $14.55 for health services for each of the students at a total cost of $101.85.

Tenure for Seven
On recommendation of Superintendent of Schools W. Wendell Hoover, the board has approved tenure for seven teachers. They are—Mrs. Shirley Adin, elementary; Ronald F. Gabriele, special physical education; Miss Edith Lang, special speech; Mrs. Ezella Marable, special class; Glenn Spiegel, junior high vice principal; Miss Athens Trataros, secondary; John S. Zambito, junior high.

Refunds for school tax overpayments on properties owned by Treinkal Realty Corp., in the amount of $2,419.45, and M. Katherine B. Ruzzo for $429.82, have been approved by the Board after orders were signed by Supreme Court Justice John T. Casey.

In order to have the M. Clifford Miller Junior High School library ready for opening in September, the central administration has been authorized by the board to employ the librarian effective July 1.

Clifford E. Shultis, of the J. Watson Bailey School, has been granted an indeterminate military leave of absence effective Jan. 29, and salary for a period of 30 work days. He recently was called for active duty in the U. S. Marine Corps under Presidential order.

Professional Appointments
Professional appointments approved by the board on recommendation of Dr. Hoover include—Joseph Alexichik, biology teacher (KHS); Mrs. Cecilia Edenhorn and Mrs. Jo Anne Turk, elementary, and Mrs. Theresa DeWitt, substitute teacher at Lake Katrine School. The salary of William J. Smurl has been increased in accordance with his new step 5 A-1-d, effective Sept. 1. He had submitted evidence of having satisfactorily completed indicated graduate work.

The resignation of Mary B. Brown has been accepted. Miss Mary E. Polhemus, retired principal of Sophie G. Finn School, and Miss Laura May Stanley, a retired teacher, are eligible for employment as substitute teachers, when needed, as the result of action by the board.

Six clerical employees, certified as clerk-typists and stenographers—by the Municipal Civil Service, have been placed on probationary status. They are Miss Kathleen Alagna, Mrs. Margaret O'Neil and Miss Patricia Winpen, clerk-typists, and Mrs. Anna Fay, Miss Patricia LaBarr and Miss Germaine Litus, stenographers.

Changes in status and salary for four cleaners from hourly rate to contract salary, have been approved for John H. Barley, Edson School; Arthur Champion, Hurley School; Francis T. Murphy, JWB, and Raymond J. Slater, Kingston High School. The status of Gloria M. Deyo has been changed from food service helper to clerk-typist. She is assigned to the Bailey School cafeteria.

14 Drivers Added
Fourteen bus drivers have been added to the list of approved drivers for the 1967-68 school year. They are: Frank Cuscardo, Vincent Provenzano, Curtis Vandemark and Michael Perry, of Chappie's Taxi; Donald Partridge, a Gennaro Ausanio employee; Cornelius Hasset, Ernest Keater, Art Gumaer, Kenneth Shupe, Dan Elkins, Richard Driesler, Lucille Wnuk and William Russell, of Arthur Mulligan's; and John Walker, Lipton's Bee Line.

Because it was necessary to issue transportation contracts for handicapped children, transfer of funds from instruction to transportation accounts have been approved in the amounts of $218 for Lucy Perry, doing business as Chappie's, and $552 for Ethan Allen, a total of $770. There were insufficient funds in the transportation budget to cover the contracts.

Appointments of non-instructional employees approved include: Cafeteria—Elizabeth Burgher, Margaret B. Carroll and Klara A. Wiese, substitute food service helpers; Clerical—Dorothy Jones and Patricia W. Russell; others—Cora Martin, school monitor; Patricia A. Keating, teacher aide; Anderson D. Simmons, bus attendant; Steven Harkin, stage crew as needed.

Termination of part-time hourly employees has been approved for Ellen E. Flowers, Ellen R. Lowe, Ruth E. Van Kleck and Evelyn V. Wolven, food service helpers; and Waverly Drake, small vehicle driver, and Charles Groeters, bus attendant.

Predict Long Strike Of Sanitation Men

NEW YORK (AP) — City officials and union leaders have expressed pessimism about a quick settlement in the day-old strike by the city's 10,000 uniformed sanitationmen.

"Things have got to simmer a little," said one official of the Uniformed Sanitation Men's Association after a tumultuous City Hall Park rally Friday at which 7,000 workers shouted approval of a motion to "go, go, go!"

The city's corporation counsel went into State Supreme Court and obtained a temporary restraining order under provision of the Taylor Act, enjoining the union from any strike, slowdown or stoppage.

A hearing was set for Monday at which the union officials must show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued. The Taylor Act prohibits strikes by public employees.

Despite the no-strike order, the walkout continued Friday night. A Sanitation Department spokesman said no member of the union showed up for the afternoon shift at any of the garages in the five boroughs.

At the rally, the men booed down union President John J. DeLury's plea for a strike vote by mail. Then he met with Mayor John V. Lindsay and returned to tell the crowd he had submitted new demands including a $600 pay increase.

The city rejected the new proposal, and DeLury, reporting to the crowd, declared, "No contract, no work." In the aftermath pickets were assigned to the sanitation garages throughout the city.

The Mayor's Emergency Control Board met in the afternoon to discuss health and safety measures to be taken in the event of a protracted strike.

Later it was announced that arrangements were being made with the union to remove "highly putrescent garbage" from municipal hospitals, nursing homes and other municipal emergency facilities.

Householders were urged to compact refuse by crushing items such as milk containers and cartons and to separate out paper, rags and cardboard to leave space for "potentially unpleasant substances" in receptacles.

In 1951, sanitationmen staged a slowdown, and many called in sick during a 17-day drive for a shorter work week. There was no serious pile-up of trash however.

A moderate slowdown occurred earlier this week when they began to increase pressure in the negotiations. The old contract expired June 30.

A mediation panel has recommended an increase of $400 a year in the present sanitation wages that range from $6,424 to $7,965 annually after three years.

Lights... Laughter... and Applause

One of the top news and entertainment stories of the week was the return of live productions to historic Ford's Theatre.

An air of mystery and tragedy has long hung over the old building, but the fact and fiction which has surrounded it down through the years seemed like so much ancient folklore last Tuesday night. Television cameras roamed where John Wilkes Booth's getaway horse once awaited his master's escape, and Harry Belafonte and Odetta appeared on home screens to remind viewers why the Great Emancipator had died at the hands of his Southern assassin.

The CBS News Special, "Inaugural Evening at Ford's Theater," brought to America all the splendor of the gala re-opening of Ford's in Washington, D. C., which had not seen a performance since April 14, 1865, when President Abraham Lincoln was shot there while attending a play. To the distaff dean of present day theater, Helen Hayes, fell the honor of becoming the first performer to set foot on the Ford's stage in more than 100 years.

Intrigued by the appearance of the refurbished historic site, TEMPO researched briefly into Ford's past and present and found both the story of the theater and Lincoln's love for it interesting.

A Place to Relax

Apparently, Lincoln turned into one of the most avid of theater-goers after he came to the nation's capital as President. He had probably had little opportunity to show his enthusiasm for the arts in the Illinois of his day, and his visits to the theater in Washington must have done much to relax him from the problems of his office and the Civil War.

In any event, after his inauguration, Lincoln regularly attended the theater. As pressures and problems mounted and the war wore on, he found mental stimulation in Shakespeare and fun in the contemporary comedy of the day.

Those who have studied Lincoln at length know he had dramatic talent as a mimic and raconteur. Biographers have long called attention to his tall tales and to his wit and humor. And, after hearing him read Shakespearean selections one biographer said of Lincoln, "I was not sure but that he had made a mistake in the choice of a profession." An ironic statement in view of the fact that had Lincoln been on the other side of the stage-lights that April evening, he would have lived to play many other roles.

Lincoln's wife, in spite of any other faults she may have had, shared his enthusiasm for the art. She was an opera fan, as well as a theater fan, and it has been suggested that the President would not have been at Ford's on the fatal night if he had not feared disappointing Mrs. Lincoln by pleading that he was too tired to accompany her.

According to the National Geographic Society, their son Tad was also a lover of the arts and once gave a surprise performance for his father. Young Tad persuaded the President to attend a popular extravaganza featuring a soldiers' chorus. While Lincoln watched the performance, Tad slipped from the Presidential Box, changed into uniform, and marched on stage with the chorus. If the President was surprised, he is reported to have greeted his son's footlights debut with peals of delighted laughter.

It is now a matter of history, of course, that Lincoln was enjoying a then popular comedy — "Our American Cousin" — when John Wilkes Booth entered the Presidential Box from the rear and shot him in the back of the head. The mortal wounding of Lincoln took place at Ford's Theater in downtown Washington, D. C., and Booth escaped (for a time) by leaping from the box to the stage, running to the alleyway behind Ford's, and riding his horse out of Washington and across a bridge into Maryland. The unconscious Lincoln was carried across the street to the private home known as Petersen House, where he spent the night in a bed far too small for his tall frame, and was all unknowingly surrounded by dozens upon dozens of people in various stages of panic and shock. He died there the next morning.

Public indignation over the assassination rose to such frenzied heights that impressario and theater owner, John T. Ford, and his brother, were prevented from reopening their red-brick playhouse after that night. The stage remained darkened, but the theater was destined for still further tragedy.

Another Tragedy

Eventually the United States Government bought the deteriorating building and remodeled it as offices for the War Department. One day in 1893 a floor collapsed, killing 22 people

Tempo Goes to a Rent Party To Aid the Strawberry Rush

THE ROCK 'N ROLLING STRAWBERRY RUSH threw a rent party last week and fans of the band turned out en masse to help the four musicians keep the wolf away from the door. Scene of the merry happening was an ancient Revolutionary War era house in Lyonsville near the Accord Speedway. There was music galore and the amplified sound came close to shaking the rugged old roof beams and fireplace from their Colonial moorings. There was also a dizzying, topsy-turvy light show, soda iced in a dishpan, body painting, beaded work and other handicrafts for sale, mini skirts, textured hose, boots and blue jeans, and colorful outfits of every hue and variety. Pretty girls with flower painted faces and the inevitable bells and beads hawked refreshments and wares, tiny tots dug the scene along with their elders, and the evening was pronounced a Strawberry Rushing success. It all jolted the eye and resembled a friendly subway squash with flower power utilized to raise the rent for Rush musicians Steve Oppenheim, Albert Ciappa, Bert Levine and Patrick O'Connor. (Freeman photos by Haines)

STEAMED UP SPECTACLES is a commonplace occurrence when a boy gets this close to a pretty blonde—but this could be going too far! Cooperative youth at Strawberry Rush rent party makes like expendable art; submits to having both his glasses and face painted by girl wielding nylon tipped marker pen. He was one of many intrepid party-goers who braved chilly night and heatless party to make the scene as youthful participants from all over the area rushed in to bail the popular rock band out of financial distress. Bundled in Mexican sweater, toggled topecoats and psychedelic pajamas, flower children and the just plain curious danced and sang the night away.

Brick and Marble Mansion Opens Its Doors for Big Social Whirl

15-KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, FEB. 3, 1968

By TOBY GEERTSEMA

For residents of the Hudson Valley in 1173, the times seemed troublesome and tumultuous. New frictions and unresolved problems between the American colonies and the British motherland had become regular occurrences. Irritation, dismay and fear were abroad in the valley and women spoke of division and war over their butter churns, while men talked of taxes and revolutions as they worked in the fields and stables.

Still, when the morning sun shone dazzlingly on the Hudson River and shimmered off the white sails of sloops, schooners and packets that plied their way upstream toward Albany, it was easy to forget about war and rumors of war. On just such a day, probably, Colonel Henry Beekman pulled aside his damask curtains and, perhaps stirred by the breeze from the river, made a decision to give his grand-daughter, Janet Livingston Montgomery, 800 acres of land which he owned on the south side of the village of Rhinebeck.

The gift delighted Janet and her husband, Richard Montgomery, for it was their dream to build a house there—a white columned mansion with wrought-iron balustrades.

And War Came

But the couple's plans were interrupted by the Revolutionary War, a war that shook not only the foundations of the old colonial mansions of New York City, but the newer foundations of the Rhinebeck home. As the fledgling nation threw over its colonial governors and all other British abominations, war came to the Hudson and Mohawk valleys in earnest.

The war came within seeing and hearing distance of the Montgomerys and their uncompleted home when Sir Henry Clinton advanced up the river to Kingston and burned the city on a mid-October day. But it came closer still when Richard Montgomery was appointed a Brigadier General of the newly continental army by George Washington.

General Montgomery kissed his wife goodbye and left Rhinebeck before the new house in Rhinebeck was completed. He never returned to live there for he died in the battle of Quebec on the last day of 1775. When the war was over and the house finally finished, his widow moved into the home she had hoped to share with her husband. In sorrow she planted an Avenue of Locusts there in memory of her husband and his gallant fighting men. These tall trees still stand along Rhinebeck's Mill Road and the imposing avenue which leads to the present day house that eventually replaced the Montgomery home.

The solitary life and the dense fog that rolled in from the Hudson to shroud the house eventually led Janet Montgomery to move to Barrytown, where she built another home. The Rhinebeck house was rented to Lady Kitty Duer and here her son Alexander was born. Inside the great portico he followed the intellectual pursuits which later stood him in good stead as president of Columbia University.

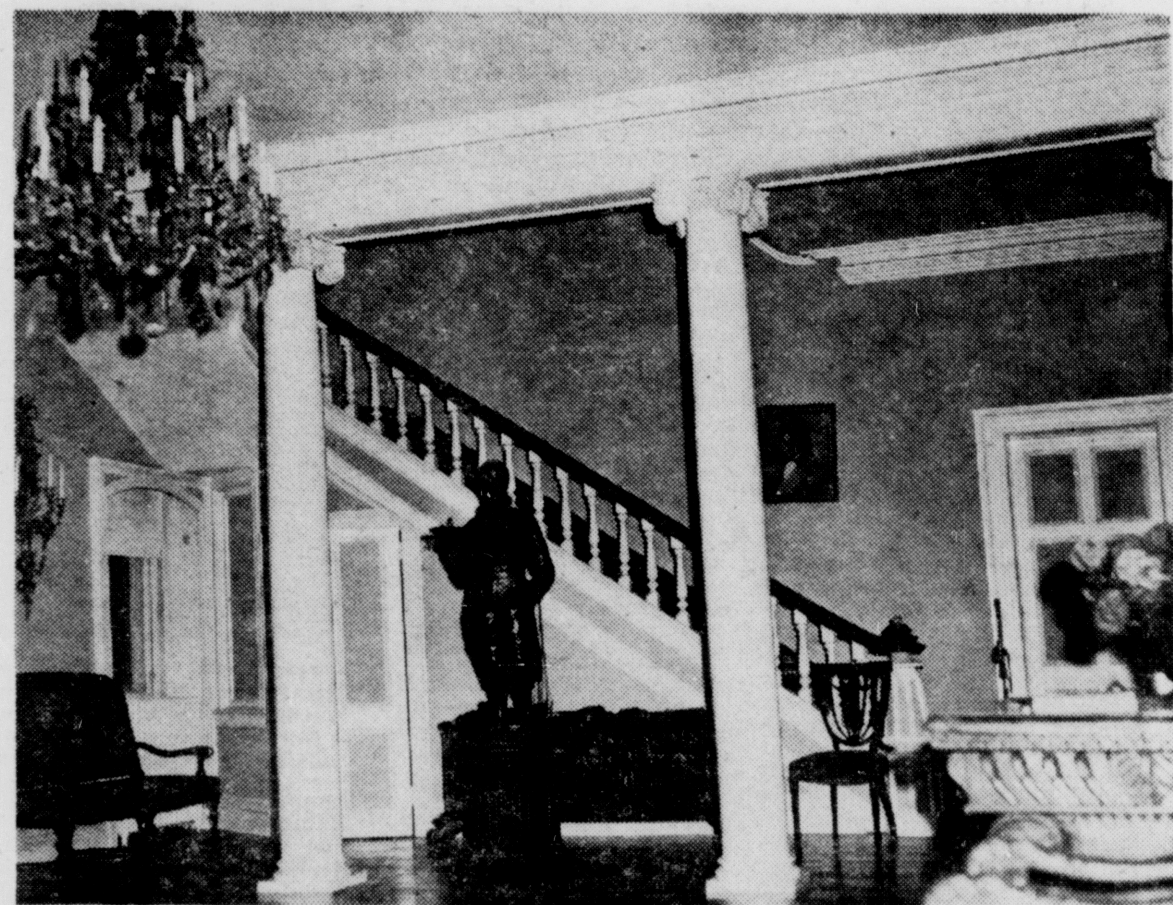

Originally known somewhat mundanely as "Rhinebeck House," it was eventually renamed "Grasmere," in memory of distant ancestors who had come to this country from a region near the Scottish border of England. And, in time, it saw a new resident—General Governor of New York and Major General in the War of 1812, whose father was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Sold First Time

It was during the year of that war that Janet Montgomery sold the house to Peter Livingston, a State Senator and member of the House of Representatives. Tragedy again beset the house in 1824 when the original Grasmere was destroyed by fire. But Livingston rebuilt his house and it still stands today much as he conceived it.

And it was conceived as an architectural masterpiece of Georgian style, fashioned of red brick and white marble and rising on the original foundation. The newer and more magnificent Grasmere passed in time to Livingston's brother after his death. He, in turn, gave it to his son, who added to its imposing majesty by constructing a third story and making other alterations.

Ornithologist Ernest H. Crosby, who was also a judge, lived at Grasmere next. He must have found the park and gar-

OPEN BAR WILL BE SET UP in entrance hall of Grasmere for Masked Ball. Hall faces 40-acre park, is the largest room in the old Rhinebeck house, and its pale blue and white decor gives a Wedgwood effect. The chandelier is an 18th century Maria Teresa from Austria. Gold sconces, red silk brocade Georgian chairs and red rug on parquet floor provide background for portrait of Elizabeth of Russia, daughter of Catherine the Great, which dominates Hall. dens of this beautiful estate an area unsurpassed for bird watching. In the verdant acres of protected parkland, wild deer roamed among a rich growth of trees, and in the large, ancient beeches and stately locusts, birds nested in profusion.

Later, Mrs. Reredon Havemeyer, a wealthy art collector, owned Grasmere and the paintings of many famed artists graced its walls. Still another Senator, this one Allan Ryan, took the residence over after her death to enjoy its garden and pond, its tall cedars and brick and marble ballustrade.

Today, Grasmere is owned by Louise Clews Timpson, who has called the fabled marble house home since 1954. Talented, ever busy and gracious, she is a great lady in the legendary style of America's grandes dames. The former eleventh Duchess of Argyll and the daughter of the celebrated American sculptor, Henry Clews, she has had la manie de batir, the fury to build beautiful houses. If Grasmere had already been built, it was Louise Clews whose flair for interior decoration restored the historic mansion to its former grandeur. Today it is a place of charm and beauty, offering a kind of spectacle it never possessed before.

The Masked Ball

Those who have never seen Grasmere will have a chance to do just that—and to enjoy its furnishings and paintings in the guise of non-tourists on the evening of March 2. For its owner has offered the handsome mansion in Rhinebeck to be used for the purposes of a Masked Ball to benefit the Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre.

The planned social whirl, a project of "The Playgoers," promises to be the highlight of the winter season in this area. Through the main gates on Mill Road, ball-goers in formal attire and artistically designed masks, will wend their way up the wide avenue of locusts, climb the stately steps and find themselves in an Entrance Hall that has few rivals and fewer superiors.

The Hall will be converted into an open bar for the evening and the clink of ice in glasses will echo off the gold sconces and hanging chandelier. Looking down on the festivities will be portraits of Elizabeth of Russia, daughter of Catherine the Great; Louise Morris Clews, mother of Louise Clews Timpson; and Captain Robert Orme. Conversation should prove sparkling in this blue-and-white room where the chairs are of silk brocade, a pair of 18th century statues over seven feet tall in carved teak wood tower above normal men, and a gold Louis XVI mirror, Wedgwood clock, and early 17th century chest of carved oak and Cordova leather preside.

Dancing in the drawing room of Grasmere will be one of the privileges offered at the Masked Ball on March 2. This room, as formidable in length as the Entrance Hall, is one of the most sumptuous in the house.

A portrait of "The Winter Queen" (Elizabeth, Queen Consort of Frederick of Bohemia) looks down on a Georgian mantelpiece, modeled on one in Syon House, the English home of the Duke of Northumberland. Chippendale furniture and Martha Washington chairs vie with Hepplewhite consoles and 18th century chandeliers. The white silk brocade draperies will be drawn aside the night of the ball to afford a moonlit view of the terrace which leads to the garden and lies beyond three French doors.

For Readers Only

The fortunate ball-goer may get a glimpse of the library, an oak-paneled room with book-lined shelves, chintz-covered chairs, red velvet curtains, more portraits of lovely ladies, and a massive stone fireplace.

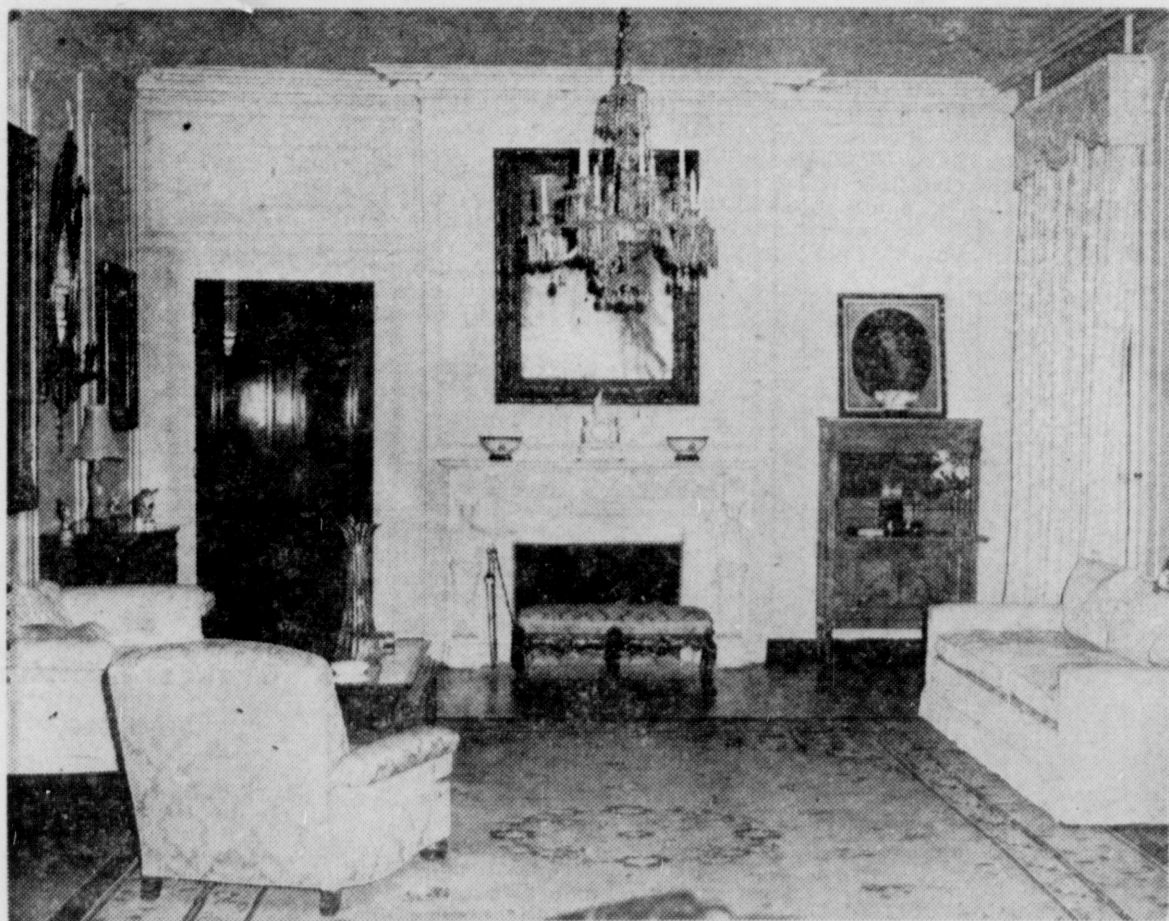

While the ball for the Repertory Theatre will feature gourmet refreshments served at a midnight buffet, masked merry-makers will have to forego use of the Georgian silverware and Clews Blue Ware Pottery displayed in Grasmere's dining room. Although waiters in maroon livery no longer stand at attention in this room, its interior design is rich in detail. Unusual examples of Sheraton cabinet-making are found there, flanking the Georgian mantelpiece and a profusion of family portraits hang on the beige walls.

So many architectural and decorating milestones are incorporated in Grasmere, that it becomes difficult to describe the variety of objects brought there by its present owner from France and elsewhere. Classical and tasteful are the Battersea enamel, bronze dore Chippendale sconces in the Morning Room, a type of room which has almost totally disappeared from homes. Rare Chinese cabinets and yellow Chinese wallpaper lend a richness that is multiplied by four-poster Sheraton beds and bronze statuary in other rooms of the mansion.

Brick and Marble Mansion Opens Its Doors for Big Social Whirl

15—KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, FEB. 3, 1968

By TOBY GEERTSEMA

For residents of the Hudson Valley in 1173, the tides seemed troublesome and tumultuous. New frictions and unresolved problems between the American colonies and the British motherland had become regular occurrences. Irritation, dismay and fear were abroad in the valley and women spoke of division and war over their butter churns, while men talked of taxes and revolutions as they worked in the fields and stables.

Still, when the morning sun shone dazzlingly on the Hudson River and shimmered off the white sails of sloops, schooners and packets that plied their way upstream toward Albany, it was easy to forget about war and rumors of war. On just such a day, probably, Colonel Henry Beekman pulled aside his damask curtains and, perhaps stirred by the breeze from the river, made a decision to give his grand-daughter, Janet Livingston Montgomery, 800 acres of land which he owned on the south side of the village of Rhinebeck.

The gift delighted Janet and her husband, Richard Montgomery, for it was their dream to build a house there—a white columned mansion with wrought-iron balustrades.

And War Came

But the couple's plans were interrupted by the Revolutionary War, a war that shook not only the foundations of the old colonial mansions of New York City, but the newer foundations of the Rhinebeck home. As the fledgling nation threw over its colonial governors and all other British abominations, war came to the Hudson and Mohawk valleys in earnest.

The war came within seeing and hearing distance of the Montgomerys and their uncompleted home when Sir Henry Clinton advanced up the river to Kingston and burned the city on a mid-October day. But it came closer still when Richard Montgomery was appointed a Brigadier General of the newly continental army by George Washington.

General Montgomery kissed his wife goodbye and left Rhinebeck before the new house in Rhinebeck was completed. He never returned to live there for he died in the battle of Quebec on the last day of 1775. When the war was over and the house finally finished, his widow moved into the home she had hoped to share with her husband. In sorrow she planted an Avenue of Locusts there in memory of her husband and his gallant fighting men. These tall trees still stand along Rhinebeck's Mill Road and the imposing avenue which leads to the present day house that eventually replaced the Montgomery home.

The solitary life and the dense fog that rolled in from the Hudson to shroud the house eventually led Janet Montgomery to move to Barrytown, where she built another home. The Rhinebeck house was rented to Lady Kitty Duer and here her son Alexander was born. Inside the great portico he followed the intellectual pursuits which later stood him in good stead as president of Columbia University.

Originally known somewhat mundanely as "Rhinebeck House," it was eventually renamed "Grasmere," in memory of distant ancestors who had come to this country from a region near the Scottish border of England. And, in time, it saw a new resident—General Governor of New York and Major General in the War of 1812, whose father was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Sold First Time

It was during the year of that war that Janet Montgomery sold the house to Peter Livingston, a State Senator and member of the House of Representatives. Tragedy again beset the house in 1824 when the original Grasmere was destroyed by fire. But Livingston rebuilt his house and it still stands today much as he conceived it.

And it was conceived as an architectural masterpiece of Georgian style, fashioned of red brick and white marble and rising on the original foundation. The newer and more magnificent Grasmere passed in time to Livingston's brother after his death. He, in turn, gave it to his son, who added to its imposing majesty by constructing a third story and making other alterations.

Ornithologist Ernest H. Crosby, who was also a judge, lived at Grasmere next. He must have found the park and gar-

What's New on Your Screen??

(Tie with 3-col. cut slugged Jim McKay and with 3 1-col. cuts slugged Merry Anders, Paula Prentiss and Eddie Albert) ...

It's torch-carrying time again and the most comprehensive colorcast of an athletic event ever programmed begins Tuesday, Feb. 6, and runs through Sunday, Feb. 18, with ABC's coverage of the 10th Winter Olympic Games at Grenoble, France. At least 27 hours of network coverage are scheduled, via Early Bird satellite, all of it live, or from on-the-spot, same-day tape.

ABC says the color spectacle will reach the largest cumulative audience ever to watch a sports event in the U. S., and estimates that more than 100 million Americans will see some portion of the games telecasts.

There'll be considerable talent behind the microphones, as well as in front of the cameras. Four top sports commentators will be covering the Olympics in the persons of Chris Schenkel, Jim McKay, Curt Gowdy and Bill Flemming. They'll be aided by former Olympic figure skating champion Dick Button and former Olympic skiers Art Devlin and Jean Saubert, who captured two medals at the 1964 Games.

Some of the biggest shows on snow will be filmed from a helicopter and crews will be challenged by staggering heights, bitter cold and vast distances. All events except bobsledding will be seen in color and ABC will use slow motion, stop-action color videotape to provide instantaneous frame-by-frame stop action of great individual performances. Snowcats will be used to move cameras right to the events each day, and home screen viewers will be interested in knowing that because the slopes are so steep, French army ski troopers helped to lay some 80,000 feet of camera cable and 120,000 feet of microphone cable along the French Alps.

ANOTHER TV TOUR DE FORCE rates TEMPO's praise as the pick of the programs over the past week. We felt versatile actor-author Robert Shaw gave one of the most explosive portrayals of the year in the title role of LUTHER, the Robert Fernald adaption of the highly acclaimed John Osborne play seen over ABC last Monday. As Martin Luther, the Augustinian monk who set the stage for the religious reformation, Shaw's characterization left nothing to be desired in its graphic facial and vocal presentation.

And, again, we liked Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In, although we caught only half of the program which conflicted with Luther later in the hour. I Spy star Robert Culp was adept in a series of running sight gags spoofing his series ... and there were some other very funny quickies, by Sheldon Leonard and Tommy Smothers.

For a happy blending of news and entertainment, one of the best bets of the week was "Inaugural Evening at Ford's Theater." Viewers saw Helen Hayes become the first performer to set foot on the stage of Washington's Ford Theater since April 14, 1865, the day President Lincoln was shot there. The TV show covered the opening evening of the refurbished historic site with a program of music and drama featuring Harry Belafonte, Henry Fonda, Julie Harris, Helen Hayes, Fredric March, Odetta, and others.

Best This Season

Earlier that evening, we found The Red Skelton Hour the most enjoyable show of his series' season, mainly because he was joined by Cyril Ritchard and Jane Powell. One clever skit had Rip Van Winkle discovering hippies and miniskirts.

We were disappointed in Hallmark Hall of Fame's "Elizabeth the Queen" from the standpoint of overall production. Perhaps the distractions were too many ... or perhaps a Broadway drama of 1930 is not exactly good original fare in 1968. Or maybe the cast, which rehearsed the play at California's Aero Institute, couldn't quite cope with the unique experience of emoting under a full-sized replica of the Wright Brothers' plane which hangs from the ceiling.

Still, if Liz and Lord Essex failed to impress, the adaptation of the 30-year-old Broadway play "Of Mice and Men," was even less eloquent.

This was mostly due to the fact that Joey Heatherton was seen as Curley's wife, a role for which she deserves the non-actress of the year award. One shudders to think what the results might have been if Princess Lee Bouvier (who floundered badly in the recent TV version of "Laura") had not stepped down earlier in favor of Joey. The sensitive depths of author John Steinbeck's feeling for his fellow man did not deserve this unreal and unoriginal treatment.

Plimpton Scores

There was cause for rejoicing, however, in The Telephone Hour's "The Musical Life of George Plimpton," which may well earn an Emmy as the best show of this season. An extraordinary combination of music, drama, comedy, human interest and just plain enter-

'Barefoot' Begins Casting

Is there a more American play than "Barefoot in the Park," all about the problems of a young married couple in a top floor apartment with no elevator? It is doubtful that there is . . . and it is certain that few funnier plays have been written in recent years.

For these reasons, it is happy news indeed that Ninety Miles Off Broadway, the area drama group based in New Paltz, will be presenting "Barefoot" as its next production.

Talent abounds in the organization but the Ulster County thespians are still eager to have more active members. They urge their many, many patrons to become regular members and to try out for parts.

Since playwright Neil Simon's "Barefoot" promises to be fun for everyone involved, those who have often meant to join Ninety Miles Off Broadway but have dallied about actually doing so, are being encouraged to try out for this spring production. Interesting roles abound in this romantic comedy about newlyweds and their older friends and the plot, which revolves around a walk-up apartment in Manhattan, is delectably funny. Director Pat Yaeger, who is interested in having as many people as possible reach for each part, calls the play "fresh, fanciful, jolly and a lark."

The first production meeting for "Barefoot" is planned for Feb. 12 at 8 p. m. in the Duane School, New Paltz, and everyone is welcome to attend. Many backstage workers are needed and they will be selected at this organizational session. So, whether you see yourself as actor, worker in the wings, set designer or builder, props or make up man, or costume maker, you are wanted and needed at the Feb. 12 meeting at the school.

Says director Waeger: "Ninety Miles has everything the theatre offers—the challenge, hard work, a chance to create, sense of accomplishment, the thrill of opening night, and great audiences . . . and we want everyone to come and enjoy these things with us."

BILLION DOLLAR BRAIN.

Harry Palmer, as millions of paperback readers and moviegoers know, is a strange kind of secret agent. He's about as bland as a bowl of oatmeal, totally anti-heroic, loathes his job and, unlike James Bond and others of that ilk, couldn't care less whether his martini is stirred, shook, gently rattled or whipped up in an electric blender. But he managed to stay alive in The Ipcress File and Funeral in Berlin . . . and he's back (in horn-rimmed spectacles, trench coat and crisp English) to do it again in Billion Dollar Brain.

Len Deighton, who wrote the novel from which this movie was made, is one of the most popular of the spy thriller writers in the business today. And Michael Caine, who plays Palmer in this third outing in the series, makes a redoubtable Harry.

Plodding ole Palmer has finally severed relationships with Colonel Ross (Guy Doleman), that ingrate and deadpan boss in MI-5 who always gets credit for cracking the cases Harry endangers his life for. Free at last, Harry is operating a seedy, one-man detective agency on his own. But the clever Colonel Ross learns of a diabolic scheme hatched by a fanatical billionaire, who calls himself General Midwinter (Ed Begley). And Ross knows there is only one man who can stop Midwinter—our man Harry, who doesn't want to be bothered.

Ruse by Ross

But Ross tricks him into it, anyhow, using the gorgeous Signe (Francoise Dorleac) and the dull-witted Newbegin (Karl Malden) in the process. Harry receives a mysterious envelope containing a heavy sheaf of money and a locker key and, intrigued by a phone call which follows, is off to track down a parcel he's told to pick up in a London airport locker and to deliver it to a doctor in Helsinki.

Palmer and Caine fans will know from the start that the world will be saved from Midwinter, who is operating a private CIA against Russia, coordinated by a vast and intricate computer complex. But before ill fortune befalls both Midwinter and Colonel Stok (Oscar Homolka), the devilish Russian who matched wits with Palmer in Funeral in Berlin, Harry finds he's holding a package of deadly, virus-infected eggs. He's also all scrambled up with a beautiful blonde spy (Dorleac), who does her snow scenes in luxurious red fox.

"Brain" follows the lead of "The Ambushers" (reviewed here last week) in proving that a spy hunt just isn't a spy hunt any more without a scene in a sauna. This time around, however, it's Karl Malden, as a jolly American spy, who's sweating it in the bath instead of Dean Martin or Matt Helm, superspy.

The continuing adventures of Harry can be seen currently at Kingston's Mayfair Theater, where it's proving to be a big draw. It has, it seems to us, the same high production standards which made its two predecessors standout movies . . . and it proves that millionaires, are passe and that it's only billionaires who rate these days.

COOL HAND LUKE. This explosive drama which pits the independent spirit against chain-gang discipline is expected to bow at Kingston's Community Theater during the coming week. Scheduled originally to arrive last Wednesday, it was delayed because of the SRO popularity of "The Jungle Book," the Walt Disney animated cartoon which has been held over.

Still, a preview would seem to be in order since Paul Newman (as Luke) will eventually take over where Mowgli and his jungle friends leave off.

On a hot delta plain just north of Stockton, Calif., in a wooded area traversed by a gravel road, a chain-gang camp was created, not by the state, but by Warner Brothers, as an authentic setting for this film. The prison movie, however, is set in a southern convict camp and it is in these surroundings that we meet a determinedly nonconformist character with a choice between only conformity and death. As Newman portrays the title role, Luke is an eternal rebel, a man of fierce individualism and incorrigible independence, who becomes a legend among the other prisoners.

The production is notable for its stress on realism. Prisoners and jailers seem as authentic as the rickety, primitive barracks, mess hall, warden's quarters, guard shack and dog kennels. The color photography is more than sensitive to the beauty and wildness of the landscape it surveys, and much of the film's realism can be credited to author Donn Pearce, who served two years on a Southern chain-gang before he wrote the book on which the film is based—a film for which he acted as technical advisor.

Luke is a man of independent spirit, it's true, but he is a cheerful and hearty figure in spite of the fact that he cannot

PAUL NEWMAN picks up the name, Cool Hand Luke, through his cautious and convincing bluffing at cards. His unrelenting battle against any form of discipline wins the admiration of his fellow prisoners on a Southern chain-gang. tolerate any form of discipline. Imprisoned on the chain-gang, he is driven by the desire to escape and, in getaway after getaway, he gains the respect of his fellow prisoners.

If he is doomed to ultimate destruction, he becomes a life-giving mythic figure and legend to the imprisoned men of the hard-working chain gang, and the memory of his coolness and resourcefulness promises to live on.

In the film with Newman are George Kennedy as a fellow prisoner named Dragline, and Jo Van Fleet as his invalid mother, who tries to claim his rebellious spirit.

Newman's individualistic acting talents, an exceptional script, and the sheer physical beauty of the photography make "Cool Hand Luke" a movie well worth seeing.

Hang Portraits of Greatness

Since February offers an extra Leap Year day, lovers of art locally may want to plan now to enjoy it at the Albany Institute in Capitaland. The Institute, on Albany's Washington Avenue, offers a wealth of attractions this month.

Portraits of Greatness, by Yousuf Karsh, will be shown Feb. 9 to 20. Karsh, world-renowned for his photographic portraits, personally chose the 27 being exhibited in the show as representative of his best known sittings. They include the Lipman Foundation and the New York State Council on the Pope John XXIII, George Bernard Shaw, Winston Churchill, Albert Einstein, artist Georgia O'Keeffe, and Dr. Albert Schweitzer. The portraits are being shown through the courtesy of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company.

In another exhibit, William S. Horton comes home. An American artist (1865-1936), he left the U. S. at the age of 30, never to return here as a resident. Just now becoming well-known in his own country, in spite of extensive exhibits here and abroad during his lifetime, his finest paintings are coming back. Shipped here from London, they offer a fresh look at an American country boy who went from the Mid-West to acclaim in the Fine Arts capitals of the world. The show bows on the main floor, Feb. 20, and will run to March 29. Horton's works are being exhibited by the Ellerton Jettes and Vose Galleries, Boston.

Still a third exhibit in Albany is the Howard and Jean Lipman Collection of Contemporary American Sculpture. Only two years ago the Lipman Foundation made it possible for the Whitney Museum of American Art to acquire an extensive collection of contemporary American sculpture. The Albany Institute will have a representative showing of about 35 pieces on public exhibition on the main floor gallery from Feb. 14 through March 14.

Expensive Show

The group is a fine one and features the work of Ernest Trova, Claes Oldenburgh and Robert Indiana, among other outstanding sculptors presently working in New York. The high cost of transporting the sculpture has been partially underwritten for this exhibition by The Smithsonian's traveling exhibit of political memorabilia (1789-1960) and titled "The People's Choice," stays in Albany until Feb. 11. The lower level Print Gallery is now featuring Prints of Interest to Children.

Usterites planning trips to Albany should know that Institute hours are: 10 a. m. to 4:45 p. m. daily; Sundays, 2-6 p. m.; galleries closed Mondays.

Arts, which should be reason enough for many gallery-goers to make the trip to Albany.

Three other exhibits have been held over from last month. The large paintings of Woodstock artist Clare Bush will remain on exhibition on the second floor gallery until Feb. 26.

Sketch Classes Remain Popular

The ever-popular Sketch Class is continuing at the Woodstock Artists Association. Class is held each Thursday from 7:30 to 10 p. m.

Begun originally by a group of artists who found it financially difficult to afford the payment of model fees, the class evolved through a pooling of their resources in order to find someone to pose. Over the years, the class has become popular with many artists, both amateurs and professionals, who have found it offers the opportunity of drawing the figure from life. In addition, artists who have problems of space, time or finances utilize the class since they cannot arrange to have models of their own.

Those interested in attending the Thursday sessions might wish to know that "sketching" and "drawing" are synonymous for class purposes—and that "class" does not necessarily connote "beginner" or mean that instruction is offered. Whether one thinks of it as "sketch," "drawing," "class," or "life drawing," it all boils down to one and the same thing—a popular and much needed program.

'BILLION DOLLAR BRAIN' is in 'The Ipcress File' and 'Funeral in Berlin' tradition, and is the third screen adventure of charming, casual Harry Palmer. Palmer is again played by Michael Caine (center), who consults The Brain—his own—in the latest Len Deighton thriller to reach the screen. Here, he talks to Karl Malden (left) and Ed Begley, cast as an eccentric billionaire.

Fite: Love in Far-Eastern Art

SCULPTOR FITE WITH STONE CARVING

"The Element of Love in Far-Eastern Art" will be the subject of what promises to be a popularly attended and informative lecture by Harvey Fite at the Woodstock Artists Association. The lecture which will be illustrated with color slides of ancient carvings and other art works, will run for approximately an hour-and-a-half, will be held in conjunction with the Association's February art exhibit, and should be one of the highlights of the winter season in the art colony.

Harvey Fite is a noted sculptor and professor of sculpture, who heads up the Art Division of Bard College. He has been associated with Bard for more than three decades, starting with the educational institution as an instructor and eventually earning his present position and title.

A long time resident of this area, he was among those close friends who rallied around Hervey White, founder of the Maverick art colony when it was first being planned.

World Traveller

Fite is one of Ulster County's most seasoned travellers. He has collected extensive slides of B. C. Hindu and Buddhist and stone carvings during extended trips into the interiors of India and Indonesia. He has also followed a fascinating career in various parts of the world restoring ruined and newly-discovered sculpture at ancient temples in the Far East and South America. These experiences have also brought fascinating additions to his slide collection—a collection which has become the envy of many of his colleagues in college art and other departments.

As a sculptor in his own right, Fite uses many materials and has been honored with several one-man shows, both in this country and abroad. His High Woods home and studio is distinguished by a "sculptural landscape design" which he built in an abandoned bluestone quarry, and which contains many of his own works in an outdoor environment within view of Overlook Mountain.

Fite is a frequent lecturer and his running commentaries in explanation of his colorful and unique slides have been popular with adult audiences, as well as high school and college listeners. From the field of art, he has sometimes strayed into lecturing on social studies, dealing with the philosophy of ideas and comparative religion. Many of the sculptures shown in his slides are focal points of Hindu and Buddhist philosophy.

Back to Honduras

The artist-lecturer plans a return trip to Honduras in the spring to research and photograph newly discovered work there.

His lecture of the WAA this month will be the first he has presented there in six years and it is being eagerly awaited since repeat engagements have been urged often in the interval.

The Fite lecture is planned for Saturday, Feb. 17 at 8:30 p. m. at the Association gallery on the Village Green. Members of WAA will be admitted free and a nominal fee will be charged non-members.

The Association hopes the Fite lecture will be the first of many such interesting and varied public entertainments during the year.

'Sierra Madre' Next at Marist

The 7th Annual Film Festival continues at Poughkeepsie's Marist College this month with a screening of John Huston's "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre" on Feb. 11.

The 1967-68 Film Program on campus began in mid-October and will continue with the showing of an art film once a month through May. Enthusiastic audiences numbering approximately 200 students and area residents have been attending the films, which are followed by a discussion of them, artistry, and merits of the movie shown.

In line with this year's major theme of Empathy—A Study of Acting in Films, audiences have already had the opportunity to see La Strada, Kind Hearts and Coronets, Les Enfants, du Paradis, and Rashomon. The showing of The Treasure of Sierra Madre on Feb. 11 at 8 p. m. in the Champagnat Theater, will be followed in future months by Die Blaue Angel, La Grande Illusion, and Henry V. Admission is free for all films.

Borrowed Art Offered Here

Unique borrowing privileges currently being offered to the public by the Kingston Library afford art lovers of this area the opportunity of hanging beautiful color prints in their own living rooms.

Totally attractive is the advantage being offered residents here to take home on loan framed art color prints from the local library. No charge is made for the loan and the prints are reproductions of famous paintings by the greatest masters of all time, past as well as modern. Many should want to borrow paintings for they cover a wide variety of subjects and styles of art and represent most of the better known artists.

A Kingston housewife told TEMPO this week: "It's a marvelous idea and it means our family can live with things we cannot afford to buy."

The prints are framed and equipped for hanging. They are accompanied by an explanatory sheet detailing information about the painting, the artist and a bibliography. Borrowers are welcome to look through the entire collection and choose whatever they like. The prints will be available for four months, and students and teachers should find them as attractive for classroom and art courses work as will private citizens who want to hang them in their homes.

Brick and Marble Mansion

neered almost singlehandedly for more than one such cultural effort. Few know that some 13 years of planning and work on her part went into bringing the original warmth and magnificence back to Grasmere. Or that most of the mansion's contents were brought here painstakingly from her former house in France, from which she escaped in World War II . . . and which withstood the threat of ravaging and ransacking, in spite of the fact that it had been used as officers' headquarters for the invading forces.

This architectural masterpiece in the heart of the Hudson Valley is one of the foremost attractions in our area, and the wealth of antiques, museum pieces, and objets d'art it houses from many parts of the world recall a more luxurious past.

Grasmere has seen great balls and magnificent parties before and welcomed many friends. Soon it will see a modern ball, one which promises to be an attraction in this day and age somewhat akin to those fetes of pomp and pageantry arranged by the Vanderbilts or

Belmonts of America's own Renaissance period.

Fund for HUVREP

When "The Playgoers" greet guests who have paid $15 per person to attend the ball and help create a fund from which the all-year round repertory theater will be able to draw for initial operations, they will have the success of HUVREP in mind. And, while many of those attending will be there because they sincerely wish to lend their support to the future of area repertory, they will be there, too, because of Grasmere.

Grasmere, a house that has known both war and peace, both gas and electric lights, and both tarnished beauty and rebirth. Grasmere, which has long been an historical and cultural asset in the Hudson Valley, became the focal point of a new project in theatre which, given support, could become another great cultural asset locally.

Between the passage of the Stamp Act and the adoption of the Constitution, the original Grasmere took form. About the same time, theatre in this country was barely beginning to come into its own in spite of moral opposition to the arts. And, during the Revolution, the theater was kept alive by British officers stationed in the state, some of whom may have fought against Grasmere Montgomery at Quebec. Perhaps it is not by chance that Grasmere, whose early history was shadowed by sorrow and the tragedy of war, has finally linked hands with an art that was born to suffer and survive that same both come together in the Hudson Valley so many light years later.

Europe Travels Take Backroads

"Travel in Europe," an exhibit of photographs by Richard E. Peterson, is the latest in a series of visual arts presentations at Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge. The show opened this week and will run until Feb. 24.

Fifty-four photographs, taken by Dr. Peterson, associate professor of art and acting chairman of the Art Division of SUNY, New Paltz, make up the UCCC exhibit. As displayed in the John Burroughs Science Building on campus in Gallery Hall, the photographs concentrate on "backroads" Europe, rather than the more highly publicized tourist attractions.

During a three-year period when Dr. Peterson taught in Germany, he and his wife and two daughters traveled through Europe. Holidays found them leaving Germany for visits in some 14 neighboring countries and, from these tours, Dr. Peterson collected many pictures. Some of the photos at the UCCC Gallery Hall resulted from Christmas holidays in Spain and Austria and Easter sojourns in Holland and Italy. Since the Petersons are inveterate campers, the photographs capture much of the countryside, as well as city scenes.

Dr. Peterson's creativity is evident in his photography, an art he learned with the Army during World War II, during which he served as a film strip art director. He continued his interest in the media during his teaching career after the war at Columbia University, the University of California, and the State University College at New Paltz.

Family Theater Stars O'Brien

Edmund O'Brien will star in "Act of Contrition" and Gene Raymond will be host for this week's Family Theater program, Wednesday, Feb. 7 over stations of the Mutual Network.

As Hollywood agent, Ralph Stokes, Edmund O'Brien stars in the story of a girl who came to Hollywood to take her place in the never-ending procession of those who seek the fame and riches of stardom. Nore-Lee Sampson is a small-town girl with the typical background of little theater and school play experience. For sake of the inevitable word "glamour," her amiable agent re-named her "Delilah West," and slowly her career changed from that of a car-hop to an actress. Unfortunately for Delilah, she disregarded her agent's advice and sought a job directly from a producer. The tragic results of this blunder bring to light the strange nature of the would-be star.

GRASMERE and its 40 acres of protected parkland in which wild deer roam through rich growth of ancient beeches, will offer its myriad attractions to party goers who attend Masked Ball being sponsored by "The Playgoers" to benefit the Hudson Valley Repertory Theater. Dancers and merry-makers are requested to come in formal attire and masks and have been promised a midnight buffet in addition to the rest of the festivities. Masked Ball is scheduled for Saturday, March 2 at 9 p. m., and deadline for return of checks is Feb. 8.

Few know that some 13 years of planning and work on her part went into bringing the original warmth and magnificence back to Grasmere. Or that most of the mansion's contents were brought here painstakingly from her former house in France, from which she escaped in World War II . . . and which withstood the threat of ravaging and ransacking, in spite of the fact that it had been used as officers' headquarters for the invading forces.

This architectural masterpiece in the heart of the Hudson Valley is one of the foremost attractions in our area, and the wealth of antiques, museum pieces, and objets d'art it houses from many parts of the world recall a more luxurious past.

Grasmere has seen great balls and magnificent parties before and welcomed many friends. Soon it will see a modern ball, one which promises to be an attraction in this day and age somewhat akin to those fetes of pomp and pageantry arranged by the Vanderbilts or

Belmonts of America's own Renaissance period.

Fund for HUVREP

When "The Playgoers" greet guests who have paid $15 per person to attend the ball and help create a fund from which the all-year round repertory theater will be able to draw for initial operations, they will have the success of HUVREP in mind. And, while many of those attending will be there because they sincerely wish to lend their support to the future of area repertory, they will be there, too, because of Grasmere.

Grasmere, a house that has known both war and peace, both gas and electric lights, and both tarnished beauty and rebirth. Grasmere, which has long been an historical and cultural asset in the Hudson Valley, became the focal point of a new project in theatre which, given support, could become another great cultural asset locally.

Between the passage of the Stamp Act and the adoption of the Constitution, the original Grasmere took form. About the same time, theatre in this country was barely beginning to come into its own in spite of moral opposition to the arts. And, during the Revolution, the theater was kept alive by British officers stationed in the state, some of whom may have fought against Grasmere Montgomery at Quebec. Perhaps it is not by chance that Grasmere, whose early history was shadowed by sorrow and the tragedy of war, has finally linked hands with an art that was born to suffer and survive that same both come together in the Hudson Valley so many light years later.

Europe Travels Take Backroads

"Travel in Europe," an exhibit of photographs by Richard E. Peterson, is the latest in a series of visual arts presentations at Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge. The show opened this week and will run until Feb. 24.

Fifty-four photographs, taken by Dr. Peterson, associate professor of art and acting chairman of the Art Division of SUNY, New Paltz, make up the UCCC exhibit. As displayed in the John Burroughs Science Building on campus in Gallery Hall, the photographs concentrate on "backroads" Europe, rather than the more highly publicized tourist attractions.

During a three-year period when Dr. Peterson taught in Germany, he and his wife and two daughters traveled through Europe. Holidays found them leaving Germany for visits in some 14 neighboring countries and, from these tours, Dr. Peterson collected many pictures. Some of the photos at the UCCC Gallery Hall resulted from Christmas holidays in Spain and Austria and Easter sojourns in Holland and Italy. Since the Petersons are inveterate campers, the photographs capture much of the countryside, as well as city scenes.

Dr. Peterson's creativity is evident in his photography, an art he learned with the Army during World War II, during which he served as a film strip art director. He continued his interest in the media during his teaching career after the war at Columbia University, the University of California, and the State University College at New Paltz.

GRASMERE and its 40 acres of protected parkland in which wild deer roam through rich growth of ancient beeches, will offer its myriad attractions to party goers who attend Masked Ball being sponsored by "The Playgoers" to benefit the Hudson Valley Repertory Theater. Dancers and merry-makers are requested to come in formal attire and masks and have been promised a midnight buffet in addition to the rest of the festivities. Masked Ball is scheduled for Saturday, March 2 at 9 p. m., and deadline for return of checks is Feb. 8.

'Sierra Madre' Next at Marist

The 7th Annual Film Festival continues at Poughkeepsie's Marist College this month with a screening of John Huston's "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre" on Feb. 11.

The 1967-68 Film Program on campus began in mid-October and will continue with the showing of an art film once a month through May. Enthusiastic audiences numbering approximately 200 students and area residents have been attending the films, which are followed by a discussion of them, artistry, and merits of the movie shown:

In line with this year's major theme of Empathy—A Study of Acting in Films, audiences have already had the opportunity to see La Strada, Kind Hearts and Coronets, Les Enfants, du Paradis, and Rashomon. The showing of The Treasure of Sierra Madre on Feb. 11 at 8 p. m. in the Champagnat Theater, will be followed in future months by Die Blaue Angel, La Grande Illusion, and Henry V. Admission is free for all films.

Borrowed Art Offered Here

Unique borrowing privileges currently being offered to the public by the Kingston Library afford art lovers of this area the opportunity of hanging beautiful color prints in their own living rooms.

Totally attractive is the advantage being offered residents here to take home on loan framed art color prints from the local library. No charge is made for the loan and the prints are reproductions of famous paintings by the greatest masters of all time, past as well as modern. Many should want to borrow paintings for they cover a wide variety of subjects and styles of art and represent most of the better known artists.

A Kingston housewife told TEMPO this week: "It's a marvelous idea and it means our family can live with things we cannot afford to buy."

The prints are framed and equipped for hanging. They are accompanied by an explanatory sheet detailing information about the painting, the artist and a bibliography. Borrowers are welcome to look through the entire collection and choose whatever they like. The prints will be available for four months, and students and teachers should find them as attractive for classroom and art courses work as will private citizens who want to hang them in their homes.

Family Theater Stars O'Brien

Edmund O'Brien will star in "Act of Contrition" and Gene Raymond will be host for this week's Family Theater program, Wednesday, Feb. 7 over stations of the Mutual Network.

As Hollywood agent, Ralph Stokes, Edmund O'Brien stars in the story of a girl who came to Hollywood to take her place in the never-ending procession of those who seek the fame and riches of stardom. Noree Sampson is a small-town girl with the typical background of little theater and school play experience. For sake of the inevitable word "glamour," her amiable agent re-named her "Delilah West," and slowly her career changed from that of a car-hop to an actress. Unfortunately for Delilah, she disregarded her agent's advice and sought a job directly from a producer. The tragic results of this blunder bring to light the strange nature of the would-be star.

Angeloch's Works Exhibited at Bryant Galleries

On Monday, Feb. 5, Bryant Galleries, of New Orleans, La., will open a distinctive show of paintings and drawings of Woodstock artist, Robert Angeloch. His one-man exhibit in the Mardi Gras city is slated to run through Feb. 29 at the gallery's Royal Street address. The New Orleans show marks yet another sortie into the South by the Northern artist. In recent years he has had sell-out exhibitions in Jackson, Miss., on two occasions.

Angeloch has risen rapidly on the list of distinguished, nationally-known artists and is an instructor at the Art Students League of New York Woodstock Summer School. His works were included in an instructors' show there this past summer along with those of Arnold Blanch, Bruce Dorfman, Fletcher Martin and Walter Plate.

Awards Recipient

A Woodstock resident of many years the artist was born in Richmond Hill, N. Y., and studied at the Art Students League in the late 1940's and early 1950's. He was awarded the McDowell Traveling Scholarship in 1951 for study in Europe, an Emily Lowe Award in 1954, a Kleinert Award in 1955, and the Woodstock Foundation Award for Painting in 1956. In more recent years, he has continued to be a consistent prize winner; has been honored by the Berkshire Museum, Tyringham Gallery, Albany Institute of History and Art, and the Allied Artists of America.

In 1965 the Albany Institute had a 10-year retrospective show of Angeloch's work. He has also been commissioned for work by research and development centers, and has earned plaudits as a painting and drawing instructor.

Known mainly for his landscapes, he has painted many Ulster County scenes. Another favorite subject for his canvases is Monhegan Island, off the coast of Maine. As a result of innumerable painting trips to that island, a collection of Angeloch drawings executed there has been published by Phantom

SNOW SCENES have often captured the fancy of artist Angeloch in the past . . . and he has painted the white slopes of most of the Catskill ridges and cliffs over a 10 year period. A number of new landscapes of this type will be shown at the New Orleans show.

Press in a series of booklets titled "Monhegan." During the past year, he spent time in Ireland for the purpose of painting landscapes in that country.

Widely Exhibited

Ulster County residents have seen his work at Woodstock galleries such as the Old Forge, Seven Arts, Woodstock Artists Association (which he has served as chairman), Lewis, Mari and others. Art patrons across the country have recognized New England, the Deep South, Upstate New York, and at Manhattan's Metropolitan Museum of Art and its Museum of Modern Art.

Prior to joining the staff of the Art Students League, he conducted private landscape classes from his own studio in the Byrdcliffe section of Woodstock. He still resides in that part of the art colony with his wife, artist Nancy Summers, and two children.

and injuring 68. Repairs were made once more, and the building served as a publications depot for the Adjutant General and, still later, as a Lincoln Museum.

No longer did horse-drawn carriages roll past its door, or ladies with parasols and gentlemen in stovepipe hats wait in queues for an opening curtain or drop by to make inquiries at a box office.

But now the historic building is alive again with lights, laughter, and applause. This week's television show was merely a preview of things to come. On Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, the curtain is scheduled to rise for a season of live theater at Ford's. Productions will include Shakespeare, plays popular in Lincoln's time, and modern works relating to the life of the Civil War President.

A grant by the Lincoln National Life Insurance Company helped to organize and finance a resident company called the National Repertory Theatre-at-Ford's Theatre.

Accurate Restoration

The National Park Service, as custodian of Ford's Theatre, has restored it as accurately as possible. From classic proscenium to saucer-shaped dome, the theater recaptures all the intimate elegance of the 19th century.

Furnishings are originals from Lincoln's day or excellent reproductions. A basement museum will display Lincoln memorabilia—his boots, shawl, office furniture, a rail he split as a boy.

Mrs. Lincoln's famous sofa will be returned to the Presidential Box. But the box will always remain empty in respect to the martyred President. (T. G.).

Newport Opera Canceled Out

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera will not return to Newport, R. I., next summer. The Met Board of Directors said the company could not again absorb a loss of $100,000, as it had to do in 1967.

For the past two years the Metropolitan gave opera concert performances at the open-air site of the Newport Jazz and Folk Festivals. Bad weather in 1967 caused low attendance and convinced the Met management that a covered performing area is necessary.

The Met had planned a Puccini Festival for Newport this year. Last summer it presented a Verdi Festival, with song, chamber music and other smaller works of Verdi performed as well as full-length operas.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

How Big Is a "Gold Medallion?"

"Now I want a real one for my charm bracelet," announced the four-year old who'd snipped the symbol of total electric living from a magazine ad.

"Too big," is the answer, if you're thinking of the Gold Medallion emblem displayed somewhere on the exterior of the dwellings that qualify. (Though it's only several inches in diameter and incorporates nicely into knockers and door bells). With that you've settled the subject for the moment for the romper room-set.

But you haven't even begun to explain what it can mean to the harried adult trying to make life better and home well . . . nicer.

Take the matter of size. "Anything from a vacation hideaway to a multiple apartment complex," says a man from the utility company. "But it has to measure up to specifications . . . and believe me they're comprehensive. A complete electric heating system, of course, is basic. It outperforms everything else; and furthermore it will outlast the other systems, the older types, on the market.

"The wiring is going to last, too. In fact, so many extra circuits are required you won't have to supplement the wiring as new inventions utilizing electric power come along.

"And you get the automated 'servants' too, that take the trauma out of getting things done, the electrical appliances big and small. Some — like the electric heating system — are required. There's also an optional list you select from.

"But there's still more. It's what I sometimes call 'the inside story'. Because Gold Medallion houses are also certified as well insulated, assuring that the rooms you're directing your even electric heat into, make efficient use of it . . . and that drafts and hot spots are eliminated. And as with everything else about the Gold Medallion, insulation details are spelled out for all possible design combinations and architectural features . . . and related to the specific climate zone."

And when it's all put together, it adds up to world of tomorrow living. Today.

QUESTION BOX

Question: A year from now we hope to be settled in a home of our own and have been attracted by our friends' reports of electric heating. Is that what's known as a Gold Medallion Home . . . one with electric heating?"

Answer: Gold Medallion Homes are all heated by electricity . . . in fact, electricity is the only fuel used. However, there are electrically heated buildings that couldn't qualify for the honor. It's not just a symbol, you see. There's an actual certification, and one that could prove valuable at re-sale time (when or if).

And naturally we'd recommend that you go all the way to the Gold Medallion House.

If there are some models in your area open for the visiting, do just that. Or, if by chance you're planning to build, confer with your utility company, and talk it over with an electrical contractor. Not only will you be getting the most efficient home (and this is regardless of size) you'll be saving money in the long run. Take the electric heating feature, for example. With few or no moving parts it isn't going to wear out at the rate of older types. In fact, you may never have need for a maintenance man's services. Then, too, electricity is 100% useable, nothing else is. And you don't have to remember to re-order. It's always right there, ready to go to work when you flip the switch.

Question: Is electric heating practical for an older duplex?

Answer: Sure is. We've seen photos recently of a 200-year-old landmark that's just changed over. In fact, nearly a third of the electrically heated houses in the United States are conversions. And if you have the job done right — which includes what insulation improvement is needed — you can earn the Gold Medallion certification, you know. It's a matter of measuring up to the prescribed standards, and the basic age of your house isn't a factor.

"But there's still more. It's what I sometimes call 'the inside story'. Because Gold Medallion houses are also certified as well insulated, assuring that the rooms you're directing your even electric heat into, make efficient use of it . . . and that drafts and hot spots are eliminated. And as with everything else about the Gold Medallion, insulation details are spelled out for all possible design combinations and architectural features . . . and related to the specific climate zone."

And when it's all put together, it adds up to world of tomorrow living. Today.

QUESTION BOX

Question: A year from now we hope to be settled in a home of our own and have been attracted by our friends' reports of electric heating. Is that what's known as a Gold Medallion Home . . . one with electric heating?"

Answer: Gold Medallion Homes are all heated by electricity . . . in fact, electricity is the only fuel used. However, there are electrically heated buildings that couldn't qualify for the honor. It's not just a symbol, you see. There's an actual certification, and one that could prove valuable at re-sale time (when or if).

And naturally we'd recommend that you go all the way to the Gold Medallion House. If there are some models in your area open for the visiting, do just that. Or, if by chance you're planning to build, confer with your utility company, and talk it over with an electrical contractor. Not only will you be getting the most efficient home (and this is regardless of size) you'll be saving money in the long run. Take the electric heating feature, for example. With few or no moving parts it isn't going to wear out at the rate of older types. In fact, you may never have need for a maintenance man's services. Then, too, electricity is 100% useable, nothing else is. And you don't have to remember to re-order. It's always right there, ready to go to work when you flip the switch.

Question: Is electric heating practical for an older duplex?

Answer: Sure is. We've seen photos recently of a 200-year-old landmark that's just changed over. In fact, nearly a third of the electrically heated houses in the United States are conversions. And if you have the job done right — which includes what insulation improvement is needed — you can earn the Gold Medallion certification, you know. It's a matter of measuring up to the prescribed standards, and the basic age of your house isn't a factor.
